RESOLUTION ON THE SIXTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATIONS AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1927-28

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

Revenue Department.

Cinchona.

CALCUTTA, THE 5TH JANUARY 1929.

RESOLUTION—No. 186 Cin.

READ—

The sixty-sixth Annual Report of the Government Cinchona Plantations and Factory in Bengal for the year 1927-28.

READ ALSO—

The reports of the previous three years.

Dr. J. M. Cowan officiated as Superintendent till the 21st November 1927, when Mr. C. C. Calder resumed charge of his substantive post, and held it till the end of the year.

2. A survey of the plantations referred to in the resolution on the report for the year 1926-1927 was commenced in 1927-1928 through the agency of the Survey of India, but was not completed during the year.

3. Pending the decision of the Government of India on the Report of the Agricultural Commission no action has been taken during the year on the report written by an officer of the Auditor-General regarding the commercialisation of the accounting system of the Bengal Cinchona Department.

4. The area under cultivation at the end of the year was 4,898 acres. Extensions comprising 156 acres were carried out during the year. The coppicing which was carried out some years ago in the upper blocks of the Burmiak division has produced the finest cinchona yet grown in the plantations.

5. Harvests have been confined to thinnings and to the extraction of trees which had died or become unhealthy. Harvests do not reduce the area under cultivation, but as the process of thinning and uprooting dead trees goes on, the area of a block ceases to have any fixed relation to the stock, on the block.

In order to have a staple basis of comparison the unit of stock in reports previous to last year's report was taken as an acre with a full complement of cinchona. This year the Superintendent has reverted to this unit. The figures in Appendix A represent the area of the plantations reduced to acres with a full complement of cinchona. The actual area of the plantations is 4,626 acres, but these represent only 3,162 fully stocked acres.

6. 9,17,259 lbs. of Bengal bark was harvested in the year of report against 6,69,000 lbs. in the previous year.

7. Altogether 11,43,732 lbs. of dried bark was used in the factory during the year. Of this, 8,57,900 lbs. represents the Bengal bark, and the rest Java and Burma bark belonging to the Government of India. The total quantity of quinine sulphate manufactured during the year was 46,485 lbs. at Rs. 2·721 per lb. Of this, 13,195·5 lbs. belongs to the Government of India. Of the total quantity of cinchona febrifuge amounting to 20,899 lbs. manufactured during the year 4,169 lbs. belongs to the Government of India. The cost incurred was Rs. 1·820 per lb. Besides, 289·2 lbs. of other quinine salts at a cost of Rs. 3·8 per lb. and 337·9 lbs. of other alkaloids at Rs. 4·64 per lb. were manufactured.

8. The total of factory products during the year exclusive of converted products was 68,371·3 lbs., of which 51,006·8 lbs. represents the Bengal share and the remaining 17,364·5 lbs. belongs to the Government of India.

9. The total expenditure of the department during the year, including pensionary charges, was Rs. 4,48,244-9-9, and the total receipt exclusive of Rs. 7,692-6-6 from land rent and grazing fees paid into treasury not to the credit of the Cinchona Department was Rs. 5,38,202-5-9. The expenditure was higher by Rs. 58,493-1-3, and the receipts were lower by Rs. 60,449-2-3, than in the previous year.

The increase in expenditure during 1927-28 as compared with that for the year 1926-27 is due to—

(1) Mr. Shaw's drawing full salary in India during 1927-28, whereas in 1926-27 his leave salary for 9 months was drawn in England,

(2) calculation of the pensionary charges under head "Establishments" at ¼th of the total establishment charges during 1927-28 instead of at ⅙th as during 1926-27.

(3) increase in stores required for tablet manufacture, installation of double purification plant, increase in expenditure on the carriage of bark and customs duty during 1927-28.

(4) the cost of the survey of the plantations amounting to Rs. 5,000 incurred during 1927-28 by the Director of Eastern Circle, Survey of India,

(5) the manufacture of quinine tablets being carried on through out the year 1927-28 against six months during 1926-27, and

(6) the adjustment of Rs. 2,300 on account of the cost of the proposed introduction of the commercial system of accounts in the Bengal Cinchona Department.

The drop in receipts is attributed to—

(1) the smaller quantity of quinine sulphate tablets sold during 1927-28,

(2) the fall of about Rs. 26,000 under cinchona febrifuge sale during the year,

(3) the credit of a smaller amount of outstandings, viz., 15,722 during 1927-28 against Rs. 46,511 during 1926-27, and

(4) the fact that the outstandings at the end of 1927-28 are Rs. 4,616 more than at the beginning of the year.

10. Thanks of Government are due to Dr. Cowan, Messrs. Calder and G. E. Shaw, the Quinologist and the other subordinate officers, particularly Messrs. H. Thomas and G. H. Fothergill for their efficient administration of the department.

ORDER—Ordered that this resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that a copy with a copy of the report be submitted to the Government of India.

By order of the Governor in Council,

H. C. V. PHILPOT,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal (offg.).

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the Winter Til (Sesamum) crop of Bengal, 1928-29.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1926-27, the area under til in Bengal has represented some 2·7 per cent. of the total area under til in British India.)

Character of the Season.—In Mymensingh and in some West Bengal districts the weather was not favourable at the sowing time. Subsequent weather conditions favoured the early growth of the crop generally, but heavy rainfall in October caused damage to the mature crop and diminished the outturn in some important districts. On the whole, the season may be regarded as a fair one for the crop.

Acreage.—The total area sown with the crop this year is estimated at 51,100 acres against 50,700 acres last year.

Outturn.—According to District Officers' estimates the outturn of the crop for the province, as a whole, works out at 84 per cent. of the normal against 83 per cent. last year. Taking 6 maunds as a normal rate of yield per acre, the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 9,500 tons this year against 9,300 tons last year, or an increase of about 2 per cent.

ROBERT S. FINLOW,
Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Forecast of the Wheat Crop of Bengal, 1928-29.

[Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1926-27, the area under wheat in Bengal has represented some 0·4 per cent. of the total area under wheat in India. The ratio of the irrigated wheat acreage to total wheat acreage in (a) British India and (b) in the territory now reported on has, in the five years ending 1926-27, averaged (a) 38·5 and (b) 14·0 per cent., respectively.]

Explanatory.—Four forecasts of the wheat crop are published. This forecast deals only with the area sown and the general condition of the crop in its early stages.

Acreage.—According to the estimates of the District Officers, the total area sown amounts to 122,100 acres as against 107,100 and 106,600 acres, reported, respectively, in the corresponding and final forecasts of last year.

Character of the Season.—At the outset the conditions were favourable for preparatory tillage. Sowings in consequence generally took place in the normal time except in some North and East Bengal districts where the operations were a little late owing to excessive rainfall in October. Dry weather in November has been helpful to further sowings and growth of the crop, and the present outlook is reported to be good on the whole.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

3. Only one vessel is allowed to make fast along and in line with the river banks, and no other vessel is to be made fast or to be placed outside of vessels so secured without the special permission of the Supervisor. No vessel or raft is to be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety, or obstruct the passage, of other vessels, and all vessels are to be moored in such places and in such a manner as the Supervisor may at any time direct.

4. The Supervisor may, by notification, prohibit the dropping of anchors or the erection of bamboos or luggees in or on any portion of the river or banks, and no anchors may be dropped or bamboos or luggees erected at such prohibited sites.

5. No vessel shall be moored at a distance of less than 500 feet from the junction of two or more rivers.

6. Vessels are not permitted to anchor or moor in the restricted portions of the channels maintained by training works.

7. Before entering such restricted channels the person in charge of the vessel must lighten his vessel sufficiently to prevent grounding in the channel.

In the event of any vessel running aground, the person in charge of the vessel must arrange for its immediate release by all means possible, failing which it will be lawful for the Supervisor or his subordinates to arrange to remove such vessel and to recover the costs of such operation from the owner of the vessel as provided for in rule 11 below.

8. No person is allowed to place any obstruction on the river banks so as to impede free passage along them. No person is permitted to place any obstruction in the river bed so as to impede navigation or cause any deterioration of the channel.

9. No person shall wilfully or negligently allow a vessel to sink in the river.

10. In every case of a sunken vessel, whether due to negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor and his subordinates shall offer every assistance in removing the same.

11. If three days after the occurrence of a wreck it is seen that prompt measures are not being taken by the owner to remove the sunken vessel from the line of navigation, the Supervisor and his subordinates shall make their own arrangements for the removal of the same at the expense of the owner, provided that, when the wreck obstructs the fairway, they may take action at once to remove the same.

A notice must be affixed on the wreck when recovered, calling on those concerned to pay to the Supervisor all expenses incurred in the recovery or removal of the wreck, and intimating that if the sum be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the vessel and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold, the proceeds of the sale being dealt with as directed in section 9 of the Canals Act of 1864.

12. Every Canal Officer is authorized to remove any vessel, anchor, pole or any other thing which he may find in a position in contravention of these rules and to deal with it in such manner as may be necessary to give effect to the rules.

13. Whenever any laden vessel which has been sunk, has been recovered, or when a laden vessel has been seized under the provisions of the Canals Act or of these rules, the Supervisor must give immediate notice of the same to the owner or his agent, calling upon him to remove the cargo without delay and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo until removed.

14. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and the place of business or abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel seized under the said Act, he must notify the seizure by advertisement in his office and in at least one public newspaper. Such notice shall require the owner to cause the immediate removal of the cargo and to pay all expenses incurred in providing for its proper custody and storage.

15. The Supervisor may incur whatever expenses are necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo of any vessel seized under the Act and, if the cargo be not removed within ten days from the date of seizure, he may sell the same at a public auction to be held in his office or at the place of seizure to the highest bidder, after giving ten days' notice of the auction by advertisement in at least one newspaper.

16. The money realized at such a sale is to be applied, in the first instance, to defray any expenditure that may have been incurred by the Supervisor on account of the cargo sold, and the balance, if any, is to be held in deposit to be paid to the owner of the said cargo on his applying for the same.

17. No officer of any description or rank employed on the river shall, either directly or indirectly, bid for or purchase any article sold under these rules or under the provisions of the Act.

18. Any person (other than the Supervisor or his subordinates), who infringes any of these rules, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for any one infringement and to an additional fine at a rate not exceeding five rupees a day if the infringement be continued.

2. The draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 1st April 1929, and any objections or suggestions received by the undersigned through the District Officers before that date will be duly considered :—

Draft amendments.

(1) Delete rules 15 and 19.

(2) At the beginning of rule 21 add the following :—

(3) After rule 20, insert the following rules :—

I. Votes shall be given by ballot and in person and no votes shall be received by proxy.

II. (1) The presiding officer shall keep order at the polling station, shall see that the election is fairly conducted, shall regulate the number of voters to be admitted at one time, and shall exclude all other persons except—

(a) the polling officers, the candidates, and one agent of each candidate (hereinafter referred to as the polling agent) appointed in writing by the candidate, and authorized in this behalf by the Circle Officer ;

(b) the police or other public servants on duty ; and

(c) such other persons as the presiding officer may from time to time admit for the purpose of identifying voters.

(2) The presiding officer shall close the polling station at the hour appointed in that behalf under rule 12 and shall not admit any voter thereto after that hour.

III. Each polling station shall be furnished with such number of compartments in which voters can record their votes screened from observation, as the presiding officer thinks necessary.

IV. The presiding officer shall provide at each polling station one ballot box for each of the candidates on which his name shall be written. The box shall also be coloured and numbered and shall also, if the District Magistrate so directs, bear a distinctive symbol, a separate serial number, colour and symbol, if any, being assigned by the presiding officer to each candidate of which notice shall be published at each polling station at least 48 hours before the date of polling, though, if possible, a longer notice may conveniently be given.

V (1). (2) The official mark shall be kept secret, and a period of not less than seven years shall intervene between the use of the same official mark at elections for the same ward.

VI. Every ballot box shall be so constructed that the ballot papers can be introduced therein, but cannot be withdrawn therefrom, without the box being unlocked. The presiding officer at any polling station, immediately before the commencement of the poll, shall show the ballot box empty to such persons as may be present in such station, so that they may see that it is empty, and shall then lock it up, and place his seal upon it in such manner as to prevent its being opened without breaking such seal, and keep it so locked and sealed.

VII. Immediately before a ballot paper is delivered to a voter, it shall be marked on the back with the official mark, and the number, name and description of the voter as stated in the electoral roll shall be called out, and the number of the voter shall be entered in a ballot paper list which shall be in Form A appended to these rules, and a mark shall be placed in a copy of the electoral roll against the number of the voter, to denote that he has received a ballot paper, but without showing the particular ballot paper which he has received. XIII. (1) No person shall be allowed to be present at the counting of the votes except the presiding officer and such persons as he may appoint to assist him in counting the votes, and each candidate and one representative of each candidate authorized in writing by the candidate.

(2) No person shall be appointed to assist in counting the votes, who has been employed by or on behalf of any candidate for any purpose whatsoever connected with the election.

No. 21—The 18th January 1929.—The following draft of rules which, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 11 of the Canals Act, 1864 (Bengal Act V of 1864), the Governor in Council intends to make for the regulation of traffic in the line of navigation known as the Mahananda river (100 miles in length) in the districts of Malda and Rajshahi which has been declared under section 2 of the said Act in Bengal Government notification No. 10-I., dated the 18th October 1927, published in Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 27th idem, is hereby published for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

II. The draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 10th April 1929, and any objections or suggestions received by the undersigned before that date will be considered:—

Draft Rules.

1. All vessels, when moored, must be made fast by the bow and stern along the bank so as not to obstruct other vessels passing in the river.

2. In such portions of the river where only one towing path exists, vessels must be moored on the off-side and the towing path side kept clear.

3. Only one vessel is allowed to make fast along and in line with the river banks, and no other vessel is to be made fast or to be placed outside of vessels so secured without the special permission of the Supervisor. No vessel or raft is to be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety, or obstruct the passage, of other vessels, and all vessels are to be moored in such places and in such a manner as the Supervisor may at any time direct.

4. The Supervisor may, by notification, prohibit the dropping of anchors or the erection of bamboos or luggees in or on any portion of the river or banks, and no anchors may be dropped or bamboos or luggees erected at such prohibited sites.

5. No vessel shall be moored at a distance of less than 500 feet from the junction of two or more rivers.

6. Vessels are not permitted to anchor or moor in the restricted portions of the channels maintained by training works.

7. Before entering such restricted channels the person in charge of the vessel must lighten his vessel sufficiently to prevent grounding in the channel.

In the event of any vessel running aground, the person in charge of the vessel must arrange for its immediate release by all means possible, failing which it will be lawful for the Supervisor or his subordinates to arrange to remove such vessel and to recover the costs of such operation from the owner of the vessel as provided for in rule 11 below.

8. No person is allowed to place any obstruction on the river banks so as to impede free passage along them. No person is permitted to place any obstruction in the river bed so as to impede navigation or cause any deterioration of the channel.

9. No person shall wilfully or negligently allow a vessel to sink in the river.

10. In every case of a sunken vessel, whether due to negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor and his subordinates shall offer every assistance in removing the same.

11. If three days after the occurrence of a wreck it is seen that prompt measures are not being taken by the owner to remove the sunken vessel from the line of navigation, the Supervisor and his subordinates shall make their own arrangements for the removal of the same at the expense of the owner, provided that, when the wreck obstructs the fairway, they may take action at once to remove the same.

A notice must be affixed on the wreck when recovered, calling on those concerned to pay to the Supervisor all expenses incurred in the recovery or removal of the wreck, and intimating that if the sum be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the vessel and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold, the proceeds of the sale being dealt with as directed in section 9 of the Canals Act of 1864.

12. Every Canal Officer is authorized to remove any vessel, anchor, pole or any other thing which he may find in a position in contravention of these rules and to deal with it in such manner as may be necessary to give effect to the rules.

13. Whenever any laden vessel which has been sunk, has been recovered, or when a laden vessel has been seized under the provisions of the Canals Act or of these rules, the Supervisor must give immediate notice of the same to the owner or his agent, calling upon him to remove the cargo without delay and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo until removed.

14. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and the place of business or abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel seized under the said Act, he must notify the seizure by advertisement in his office and in at least one public newspaper. Such notice shall require the owner to cause the immediate removal of the cargo and to pay all expenses incurred in providing for its proper custody and storage.

15. The Supervisor may incur whatever expenses are necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo of any vessel seized under the Act and, if the cargo be not removed within ten days from the date of seizure, he may sell the same at a public auction to be held in his office or at the place of seizure to the highest bidder, after giving ten days' notice of the auction by advertisement in at least one newspaper.

16. The money realized at such a sale is to be applied, in the first instance, to defray any expenditure that may have been incurred by the Supervisor on account of the cargo sold, and the balance, if any, is to be held in deposit to be paid to the owner of the said cargo on his applying for the same.

17. No officer of any description or rank employed on the river shall, either directly or indirectly, bid for or purchase any article sold under these rules or under the provisions of the Act.

18. Any person (other than the Supervisor or his subordinates), who infringes any of these rules, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for any one infringement and to an additional fine at a rate not exceeding five rupees a day if the infringement be continued.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1928-29.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1926-27, the area under sugarcane in Bengal has represented some 7·1 per cent. of the total area under sugarcane in British India.)

Character of the season.—As indicated in the second forecast, the weather was unfavourable during the early period of growth. Subsequently, since May, conditions were favourable for the development of the crop, although monsoon showers in August somewhat injured prospects. Untimely heavy rain at the time of maturity in October affected the outturn in many districts of the province. On the whole a fair crop is expected.

Acreage.—The total area planted is estimated at 195,800 acres this year as against 208,900 acres last year.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of District Officers, the average outturn of the crop for the province works out at 81 per cent. of the normal this year as against 83 per cent. last year.

Taking 37 maunds as the normal yield of cane gur per acre, the gross outturn for the province is estimated at 215,600 tons this year as against 235,700 tons last year.

Other sources of Gur.—The total quantity of gur likely to be obtained from date-palm juice and others is estimated at 102,200 tons this year as against 96,500 tons last year.

The quantity of gur for the province from all sources is thus estimated at 317,800 tons this year as against 332,200 tons last year.

Dated Calcutta, the 23rd August 1928.

Memo.—By SIR CHARLES TEGART, KT., C.I.E., M.V.O., Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.

Copy of the following forwarded to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Local Self-Government Department.

No. F. B. 2209/165-28, dated Calcutta, the 22nd August 1928.

From—CAPTAIN BERNARD A. WESTBROOK, Chief Officer, Calcutta Fire Brigade,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Local Self-Government Department.

(Through SIR CHARLES TEGART, KT., C.I.E., M.V.O., Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.)

I have the honour to submit the following report on the working of the Calcutta Fire Brigade for the year ending the 31st March 1928.

2. The year has been a normal one, and no specially serious fires have occurred. The most serious incident of the year took place at No. 2, Brojo Kumar Set Lane on 7th December 1927 at 11-21 P.M., when a comparatively slight fire was attended with loss of life to nineteen persons.

The building was a two-storied wooden building, about 63 feet by 23 feet; the ground floor comprising six small shops, and the upper floor accommodating some thirty-three people who lived in small rooms opening on to verandahs on three sides of the building. This floor was served by a small wooden staircase, about one foot ten inches in width, which was evidently destroyed in the early stages of the fire.

3. In the course of enquiries into the disaster, various breaches of the building regulations were found, and the City Architect to the Corporation of Calcutta remarked in this connection that "the unsuitability of the hut for the purpose of dwelling is clear, and the building is so much at variance with the regulations that it would appear to have been built without sanction, or subsequently altered to individual inclination, which is common."

It appears that effective control over this type of building is not feasible with the present staff available under the City Architect, and it is hoped that the necessary steps will be taken to remedy this state of things. The fire was quickly extinguished, and on searching the building nineteen bodies were found. Prior to this discovery there was no indication or information that people were residing in the building, and there is little doubt that they perished before the Fire Brigade was called. On arrival of the Fire Brigade the building was fully alight from end to end, and had partially collapsed.

It was definitely ascertained that a delay of some ten to fifteen minutes took place before the call was given to the Fire Brigade, although there are numerous telephones in the immediate vicinity, and various street fire alarms within easy reach.

Owing to the lack of observance of building regulations in Calcutta there are many exceptionally dangerous fire risks, and unless supervision in this department is made more effective there is always a possibility of such catastrophes.

4. Financial statement.—The statement of receipts and expenditure and payments made by municipalities within the jurisdiction of the Fire Brigade and Licensed Warehouse (Act I of 1893) is given in Appendix I.

5. Fires.—The total number of calls for fires or supposed fires was 661, being an increase of 60 as compared with the previous ten years, and a decrease of 188 as compared with the previous year. The latter figure, however, included fires caused by incendiaries during the communal rioting.

6. The number of false alarms given wilfully is 91, being a slight increase on the figure of the previous year. Included in the false alarms of fire given wilfully is one received from a private telephone through the Telephone Exchange, in which instance the Bengal Telephone Company took suitable action. False alarms of this kind are rare. The number of false alarms due to electrical defects (20) is the same as the previous year, and the number due to lightning on telephone circuits has decreased by 11.

7. The calls are classified as follows:—

Fires	520
False alarms, wilful	91
False alarms with good intent	11
False alarms due to electrical defects	20
False alarms caused by lightning on fire alarm circuits	11
Calls for special service (house collapse), etc. ..	8
	661

On	128 days	one fire or supposed fire occurred		..	128
On	70 „	two fires	ditto	..	140
On	52 „	three fires	ditto	..	150
On	25 „	four fires	ditto	..	100
On	12 „	five fires	ditto	..	60
On	5 „	six fires	ditto	..	30
On	3 „	seven fires	ditto	..	21
On	2 „	eight fires	ditto	..	16
On	1 day	ten fires	ditto	..	10

8. The actual number of calls received during the year was 978 as compared with 1,231 during the previous year. These figures include instances where more than one call was received for the same fire, and are given so that the means by which these calls were received can be classified. These calls were transmitted as follows:—

Three hundred and eighty-nine (431 in 1926-27) by street fire alarms; 541 (428 in 1926-27) from private telephones through the Bengal and Government Exchanges; 6 (52 during 1926-27) from Police and direct fire telephones; 22 (38 during 1926-27) by messengers giving information at Fire Brigade stations; 20 (20 during 1926-27) from Fire Brigade look-out men at various Fire Brigade stations.

9. It is satisfactory to note that in seventy cases the first information of fires was received by means of street fire alarms. On the other hand ninety malicious false alarms were received through this system, and in very few cases were the offenders apprehended. Fires occurred in 38 premises licensed under the Licensed Warehouse and Fire Brigade Act I of 1893, as compared with forty-three in the previous year.

10. In 314 cases fires were extinguished by means of first-aid machines, chemical fire extinguishers, buckets of water, by individual firemen, or by the occupants before the arrival of the Fire Brigade; in 73 cases by one motor fire engine, in 41 cases by cutting out switches; in 25 cases by one line of hose from hydrants; in 25 cases by two motor fire engines; in 8 cases by sand: in 7 cases by three motor fire engines; in 3 cases by four motor fire engines; in 3 cases by five motor fire engines, in 2 cases by the fire float, in 2 cases by one motor fire engine and the fire float; in 2 cases by three motor fire engines and hydrants; in 2 cases by four motor fire engines and the fire float; in 2 cases by five motor fire engines and the fire float; in 1 case by sprinklers; in 1 case by one motor fire engine and hydrants, in 1 case by two motor fire engines and private hydrants; in 1 case by one motor fire engine, hydrants and ship's appliances; in 1 case by four motor fire engines and hydrants; in 1 case by two motor fire engines, fire float and hydrants; in 1 case by six motor fire engines; in 1 case by seven motor fire engines; in 1 case by seven motor fire engines and the fire float.

11. Fire loss.—The total damage caused by fire and water during the year has been estimated at Rs. 7,66,595, a reduction of Rs. 4,28,317 as compared with the previous year. The average damage per fire is Rs. 1,160 as compared with an average for the last seventeen years of Rs. 2,980. The average fire loss per annum for the last seventeen years is Rs. 13,74,585.

12. The fire loss per fire is classified as follows:—

349 fires under Rs. 100.
104 „ from Rs. 100 to Rs. 1,000.
43 „ from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 5,000.
14 „ from Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 20,000.
10 „ from Rs. 20,000 to Rs. 1,00,000.

13. Appliances.—One new motor fire engine of 600-800 gallons capacity fitted with first-aid tank and reel, and a 50 feet telescopic ladder (Ajax) (motor pump No. 18), was placed in commission during the year.

The following is a list of the principal appliances now in commission by the Calcutta Fire Brigade:—

Sixteen motor fire engines as follows:—

Two motor pumps 600-800 gallons per minute capacity, fitted with scaling ladders, etc. (motor pump Nos. 2 and 18).

Two motor pumps 500-700 gallons per minute capacity, fitted with 55 feet telescopic ladders, etc. (motor pumps Nos. 1 and 15).

Two motor pumps 450-550 gallons per minute capacity, fitted with telescopic ladders, first-aid cylinders and reels, scaling ladder, etc. (motor pumps Nos. 9 and 10).

Three motor pumps 450 gallons per minute capacity, fitted with scaling ladders, etc. (motor pumps Nos. 8, 11 and 14).

Three motor pumps 400-500 gallons per minute capacity, fitted with telescopic ladders, first-aid cylinders and reels, etc. (motor pumps Nos. 5, 6 and 7).

Three motor pumps 250 gallons per minute capacity, fitted with telescopic ladder, first-aid cylinder and reel, etc. (specially designed for use in narrow streets and congested areas) (motor pumps Nos. 3, 12 and 16).

One motor trailer pump 250 gallons per minute capacity (specially designed for use in positions that cannot be reached by the ordinary type of motor fire engines).

An emergency tender was converted into a motor fire engine by being fitted with a 250 gallons capacity pump first-aid tank and reel and 40 feet extension ladder at the Fire Brigade workshops (No. 12).

One mechanically operated 85 feet motor turntable ladder, one motor lorry fitted as emergency tender, two motor cars, two hand-drawn steam fire engines, one 60 feet turntable ladder (converted for towing behind motors), 24 hook ladders, 60 scaling ladders, 11 smoke helmets and breathing apparatus, 52,300 of 2½ inch unlined canvas hose, etc.

Motor pump No. 4 (350-450 gallons per minute capacity) was condemned as being unfit for any future use.

The pumps are distributed as follows:—

Headquarters.—Five motor fire engines (Nos. 2, 9, 14, 15 and 16); one motor trailer pump; one motor emergency tender; one motor lorry; two motor cars; 14 hook ladders; 25 scaling ladders; 7 smoke helmets; and 23,000 of 2½ inch canvas hose.

Central Avenue.—Five motor fire engines (Nos. 1, 3, 10, 12 and 18); one 85 feet mechanically operated motor turntable ladder; 7 hook ladders; 12 scaling ladders; 4 smoke helmets; and 12,600 feet of canvas hose.

Chitpore.—Two motor fire engines (Nos. 5 and 7); one hand-drawn steam fire engine; 2 hook ladders and 10 scaling ladders; and 7,125 feet of canvas hose, one 60 feet turntable ladder.

Howrah.—Two motor fire engines (Nos. 6 and 8); one hand-drawn steam fire engine, 1 hook ladder; 9 scaling ladders; and 6,375 feet of canvas hose.

Garden Reach.—One motor fire engine (motor pump No. 11), 4 scaling ladders and 3,200 feet of canvas hose.

It is estimated that the motor appliances travelled 10,636 miles during the year to and from calls.

14. Fire stations.—Appendix V gives the number of times each fire station has been turned out in response to fire calls, together with monthly statements.

Fire Brigade headquarters is still located in rented premises in Corporation Place. Negotiations are now in progress for the acquisition of a suitable site, and it is hoped that new headquarters will be provided at an early date as the present premises are most unsuitable, and have not the accommodation required for either the staff or the pumps.

In this connection a reserve building fund is being created by placing a sum of money annually to this fund, and at present Rs. 1,20,000 is invested in 5 per cent. Government Bonds.

Owing to the provision of extra fire stations and alterations to one existing fire station no provision has been made for this fund during the forthcoming year.

The fire risk in the Nimtolla and Burra Bazar areas continues to increase, and the congestion of traffic in that part of the city frequently delays fire engines en route to fires.

A serious fire occurred in the timber yard area, Nimtolla, in March 1927, and as a result a special committee was appointed to consider what precautionary measures should be adopted to minimise the existing risks.

Meetings were held in August and December 1927, and at the latter meeting I submitted a comprehensive list of precautions which should be adopted in regard to the timber yard.

I concur with the recommendation of the committee that a Fire Brigade station with two motor fire engines and accommodation for the necessary crews should be provided in the immediate locality, and accordingly endeavours have been made to find a suitable site. Land is very difficult to obtain in this part of the city, but it has been ascertained that a site can be hired from the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta on P. C. Tagore Ghat Road, and negotiations in this connection are now in progress.

Financial considerations render the provision of a new station improbable in the immediate future, but I have submitted a scheme for a temporary station on the site referred to. This station will house the fire appliances required, and the necessary crews will be sent from the existing station at Central Avenue, each crew doing a cycle of duty, and being provided with quarters at Central Avenue Fire Station.

The staff proposed for this station is two drivers and twenty men including jemadars, and provision will be made accordingly in the budget for the forthcoming year.

15. Owing to the increase of fire risks in the Howrah and Sibpur area it has been decided to motorise the existing fire station at Sibpur. This station was originally built for a hand machine, and in order to provide accommodation for a motor fire engine it is necessary to extend the station.

Plans of the necessary alterations have been made, and the cost of the project is included in the budget for the forthcoming year. When the station is in commission, the protection of Howrah and the surrounding district will be greatly improved, especially as delay may occur at any time in sending fire engines from the Calcutta stations should the bridge across the river Hooghly be open for river traffic. The station will operate in conjunction with the district station in Howrah.

Negotiations are also in progress for the acquisition of land in Kalighat and Palmer's Bazar areas for the erection of fire and ambulance stations. It is hoped to include provision for the same in the budget of 1929-30.

16. Industrial and other fire risks in both these areas are rapidly increasing and the provision of extra fire protection is now vital.

17. Staff.—The strength of the Brigade during the year was 224 as detailed below:—

One Chief Officer, 1 Second Officer, 1 Chief Engineer, 5 Station Officers, 8 Engineers, 7 European firemen, 1 Warehouse Inspector, 3 clerks, 1 store-keeper, 3 telephone operators, 2 carpenters, 2 lathe mistries, 1 fitter, 1 blacksmith, 1 head tindal, 15 tindals, 155 khallasis, 2 bhistis, 4 mehtars, 3 peons, 1 moochi and 6 Indian drivers.

The conduct and discipline of this force throughout the year has been excellent.

18. Fatalities and accidents.—Appendix VI gives short reports of fires involving loss of life or serious accidents.

During the year under review the number of lives lost was 31 as compared with 9 during the previous year. The increase is due to the serious loss of life which occurred on 7th December 1927 (as noted at the commencement of this report) and to two cases of suicide by burning included in this number; 17 persons were injured at fires as compared with 33 during the previous year.

First-aid was rendered where necessary by the Fire Brigade, and the injured persons conveyed to hospitals by ambulances.

19. Water-supply.—Considerable benefit has been derived from the provision of the new electrically driven pumping machinery at the Mullick Ghat and Watgunge Pumping Stations, and shortage of water in the areas supplied by mains is now a somewhat rare occurrence, except where the mains are of too small a capacity. This occurs in various growing localities where the original small mains have not been replaced by mains of adequate diameter.

There have however been occasions when the machinery has had to be closed down for the purpose of relaying mains, repairing burst mains, hydrants, etc., and during such periods there is very grave risk of serious fires occurring. Improvised arrangements have had to be organised by the Fire Brigade, and fortunately such arrangements have so far been successful in dealing with any fires which have occurred, but the possibility of serious conflagrations occurring during such periods gives rise to considerable apprehension.

It is regrettable that more sluice valves for the purpose of dividing up the water system into different areas are not provided. Under existing conditions when it is required to make repairs, the whole system has to be closed down, or the water pressure reduced to a minimum. The time taken to increase the pressure at the pumping station and before the benefit of the same is felt at a fire is appreciable, and on various occasions shortage of water has been experienced particularly at the commencement of a fire, when low pressure only has been maintained at the pumping stations.

Schemes for relaying the mains are now in progress, and, when completed, will undoubtedly be beneficial.

20. The provision of Water Inspectors by the Corporation has had the effect of preventing a certain amount of waste owing to unauthorised persons opening hydrants for the purpose of obtaining water, and neglecting to turn off the supply again. Much remains to be done as there is a considerable amount of waste constantly occurring. Total prevention of this waste will enable the Fire Brigade to obtain a much more efficient supply of water during operations at fires.

21. The condition of hydrants also requires attention. It is no unusual occurrence for the Fire Brigade to arrive at a fire and find the nearest available hydrants out of order. This entails much delay in getting to work, and causes unnecessary fire damage.

22. Regarding the provision of a system of fire mains in the Chitpur-Cossipur area I regret to have again to report that no water is available in this area save that obtained from various tanks in the locality. These tanks are being filled up on sanitary grounds and for building purposes, and water shortage is a matter for serious concern. Chitpur-Cossipur abounds in serious fire-risks and there is every possibility of very large fires occurring. I understand that a scheme for the provision of a water-supply in this area is under discussion, and that definite action may be taken at an early date.

23. The water scarcity at Howrah gives ground for the greatest apprehension and the situation has been pointed out to the authorities of that municipality on numerous occasions. Nothing has however been done. Ponds are few and far between in this locality, and many of these are being filled up and it is now no unusual event to use as many as two hundred lengths of hose, each 75 feet long, to obtain a supply for fire extinguishing. The situation in this area is rapidly becoming impossible.

I feel convinced that if a water-supply scheme is not provided there is every likelihood that conflagrations will result, and whole districts will be devastated. At present should a fire gain headway there is insufficient water to extinguish it. It is remarkable that more serious fires have not occurred in this area during the past few years. The locality is becoming more congested, and fire-risks are becoming more numerous and more grave. I can only add that the seriousness of the situation has been emphasised for many years.

24. Fire float.—The fire float (5,000 gallons per minute capacity) is stationed on the river opposite Princep's Ghat, and was turned out on ten occasions during the year.

25. Street fire-alarms, telephones and electrical communications.—I am pleased to be able to report that all street fire-alarms, telephones, etc., have been maintained in a satisfactory state of repair and efficiency by the Bengal Telephone Company, and the thanks of the Fire Brigade are due to the telephone operators and the staff of the Company for their prompt attention and ready assistance at all times.

Three hundred and eighty-nine calls were received over the fire-alarms system. This system is most advantageous in transmitting calls direct to the Fire Brigade and is now thoroughly appreciated by the public. On many occasions requests have been received from the residents in various localities to have a fire-alarm erected in the vicinity, and such requests receive due consideration and attention.

The large number of false alarms given wilfully by misguided individuals over the fire-alarm system is a matter of regret and considerable concern. Undoubtedly such persons do not realise that whilst the fire engines are away from their stations on vain errands, they are not available to respond to genuine calls, and consequently if the number of false alarms increases the number of fire engines and firemen will have to be increased proportionately. I regret that few of the offenders have been arrested.

26. Inspection Department.—Theatres, cinemas and places of public amusement are inspected by an official of the Corporation of Calcutta under the Municipal Act. Many Indian theatres are badly designed, and the construction is bad; overcrowding frequently takes place, and I would emphasise here the necessity for stricter adherence to the Corporation bye-laws for theatres. Generally speaking the European theatres and cinemas are reasonably safe so far as the risk from fire is concerned.

27. In connection with the Licensed Warehouse and Fire Brigade Act I of 1893, 6,991 inspections of warehouses have been made during the year. Four hundred and forty-seven applications and complaints have been attended to and disposed of. One hundred and fourteen prosecutions were made under section 14 of Act I of 1893, which resulted in 48 persons being fined, amounts aggregating in all Rs. 1,115; 8 persons being warned and discharged, 11 persons were acquitted, 9 cases were withdrawn and 38 cases were filed, no trace being found of the accused.

28. General.—The Calcutta Fire Brigade protects the city of Calcutta and the Municipality of Howrah, and may attend fires outside the boundaries of the above (not exceeding a radius of 6 miles from the central fire station), provided appliances can be spared, on payment of a prescribed fee. The total area protected is approximately 120 square miles.

29. Ambulance Department.—The Motor Ambulance Department has done excellent work during the year under review, and there is no doubt that it is greatly appreciated by the public in general. Its activities are rapidly increasing, and no less than 16,708 calls were received during the past twelve months. It is unsatisfactory to note that there was unnecessary delay in responding to 897 calls owing to the fact that all the ambulances were engaged on other calls. Usually the delay amounted only to a few minutes as ambulances were sent on to these calls immediately on their return to their stations, but it is hoped that the strength of the deparment will be materially increased at no distant date so as to obviate any delay of this nature.

Owing to no beds being available in hospitals there was delay in disposing of 1,265 cases, and now before ambulances are sent out for cases of ordinary sickness in houses, the person requiring the ambulance has to make previous arrangements for accommodation in hospital.

The figures quoted above include instances where persons have been picked up on the streets and taken to hospital. It is no unusual occurrence to have a case in an ambulance for several hours going from hospital to hospital in search of a vacant bed.

Street beggars have been a great nuisance to the department. No less than 1,776 hours have been occupied in dealing with cases of this class.

Appendix VIII gives a brief summary of the work done, and Appendix IX gives the rules governing the department.

The staff consists of 10 drivers and 20 attendants with 12 motor ambulances. Several of these machines have been in commission for eight years and now require to be replaced by new ones.

The department is financially maintained by the Government and the Corporation of Calcutta.

The receipts during the year amounted Rs. 3,127 and the total expenditure was Rs. 67,950. The contribution from the Government was Rs. 11,500 and the balance of Rs. 53,323 was paid by the Corporation of Calcutta.

NOTIFICATION.

Minister-in-charge: The Hon'ble Raja Bhupendra Narayan Sinha Bahadur, of Nashipur.

No. 3R.—The 12th February 1929.—Whereas an application was made by Messrs. Gillanders Arbuthnot & Co. of Calcutta for sanction to the construction of an aerial ropeway for the carriage of goods from Riyang to Kalimpong in the Darjeeling district; and whereas no objection or suggestion has been received in connection with the draft order which was published under section 6 of the Bengal Aerial Ropeways Act, 1923, in notification No. 19R., dated the 27th November 1928, at pages 2453-2456, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 6th December 1928, as amended by erratum No. 21R., dated the 18th December 1928, published at page 2607, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 27th idem, now therefore the Government of Bengal (Ministry of Public Works) are pleased to make under section 7 of the Act the following order.

Order.

Preliminary.

1. This order may be called the Riyang-Kalimpong Ropeway Order.
2. In this order, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context, the expression " the Act " means the Bengal Aerial Ropeways Act, 1923.
3. The ropeway authorised by this order for the carriage of goods from Riyang to Kalimpong, in the district of Darjeeling, shall be constructed, maintained and worked subject to the provisions of the Act, or the rules from time to time in force under the Act and of this order and of any other order or orders, rules or regulations from time to time made or prescribed in connection with the working of the Riyang-Kalimpong Ropeway.
4. No powers or rights shall be deemed to have been conferred on the promoters or to have been relinquished by Government except as in this order expressly provided.
5. Messrs. Gillanders Arbuthnot and Company shall be the promoters for the purposes of this order, and are in this order referred to as the promoters.

Construction of Ropeway.

6. The promoters shall raise the capital required for the construction of the ropeway within a period of twelve months from the date of the confirmation of this order authorising the construction, and the construction shall commence within two years from the date of the confirmation of the order.

7. Within a period of eighteen months from the date of the commencement of the construction of the ropeway the promoters shall, in accordance with the provisions specified in this order, and also in accordance with plans and sections to be deposited by the promoters and to be approved by the Government of Bengal, construct and maintain the ropeway hereinafter described with all proper establishments, trestles, ropes, stations, offices, carriers and conveniences connected with the ropeway or required for the purpose thereof.

8. In the event of the said promoters failing to raise the capital required or to commence construction and to complete and equip the ropeway as provided in clauses 6 and 7 within the time specified, or within such further period as may be allowed for the purpose by the Government of Bengal, then and in any such case the said Government shall be at liberty to revoke this order.

9. In the event of this order being revoked by reason of the promoters failing to complete and equip and open for traffic the said ropeway within a period of three years and six months from the date of this order, or within such further period as may be allowed for the purpose by the Government of Bengal, the said Government shall have the option of taking over the ropeway and carriers or parts thereof at a reasonable valuation to be determined by the said Government.

If, however, the Government of Bengal do not desire to exercise the option of taking over the ropeway and the carriers or parts thereof as herein provided, then and in such case the ropeway may be dealt with under the provisions of the Act relating to the discontinuance of an aerial ropeway which has been proved to the satisfaction of the Government.

10. The ropeway authorised by this order is of the mono-cable type with detachable carriers within the district of Darjeeling, starting from Riyang to Kalimpong, with a total length of 7½ miles approximately and with a carrying capacity of 12½ tons per hour both ways.

11. The promoters may use free of cost for the construction of the ropeway an area of about 15½ acres of Government khas land to be described in a Schedule to be published hereafter, but such portions of the said area as lie in forest land shall remain reserve forest.

12. In the event of the profits of the company on the working of the ropeway exceeding 5 per cent. on the capital expended, the Government of Bengal reserve to themselves the right to require payment of rent for the land actually in occupation of the company at such rate as may be mutually agreed upon between the said Government and the promoters.

13. Such additional land as may be required by the promoters and deemed by the Government of Bengal to be necessary for the purposes of the ropeway shall be either acquired by the Government of Bengal on behalf of the promoters under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and the cost of acquisition shall be met by the promoters, or sold or leased by the said Government, on such terms as may be determined by them, to the promoters. The promoters shall not, without the consent of the Government of Bengal, sell or otherwise dispose of any land of which they may have been put in possession by the said Government for the purposes of the ropeway when such land is no longer required for such purpose.

14. The ropeway shall be constructed in accordance with drawings to be approved by the Government of Bengal, and the factor of safety in all cases except in anchorages or foundations shall not be less than 4. For foundation anchorages it shall be sufficient if the moment of resistance of the foundation exceeds the overturning moments by 50 per cent. The factor of safety of 4 shall be obtained in the case of the rope by dividing the actual breaking stress of the rope by the maximum direct tension to which it will be subjected. Station gears, trestles and sheaves shall be so designed and placed that lubrication can be performed safely whilst the ropeway is in motion, and the speed of the rope shall not exceed 180 yards per minute.

15. The minimum clearance of the ropeway from the ground except within station limits shall be 12 feet, and if in any place this clearance is less it will be open to the Government of Bengal to call upon the promoters to provide at the promoters' expense within 3 calendar months fencing on both sides of the ropeway for such length where the clearance is less than 12 feet, and the promoters shall be bound to comply with all such requisitions.

16. The promoters shall, at their own cost, construct and maintain all such stations, trestles, sidings and all other works in addition to those specified in or authorised by this order and shall also employ and maintain all such establishments, in addition to those specified in or authorised by this order as the Government of Bengal may from time to time consider to be expedient for the safe and efficient working of the ropeway or for the convenience and safety of the public. All such additional works shall be completed to the satisfaction of the said Government, and all the provisions of this order shall so far as applicable apply to such works.

Motive power, speed and signals.

17. The carriers used on the ropeway may be moved by steam power, and all driving stations shall be fitted with hand or automatic brakes to keep the speed of the rope within the maximum limit of 180 yards per minute.

18. For the purpose of giving signals the promoters shall instal telephones at all terminal and intermediate stations which will enable the ropeway to be stopped at any instant.

Maintenance and working of Ropeway.

19. The promoters shall at all times maintain and keep in good condition and repair to the satisfaction of the Government of Bengal or of any officer duly authorised in this behalf by the said Government, the entire ropeway, carriers and appliances and shall work the same in such manner as will, in the opinion of the said Government or of such officer as may be authorised in this behalf by the said Government, avoid all risks of danger or annoyance to the public.

20. The undertaking and all works stock, appliances and accounts appertaining thereto shall at all times be open to inspection and examination by any officer or officers whom the Government of Bengal may authorise for that purpose, and the promoters shall afford all reasonable facilities for inspection or examination to such officer or officers.

21. If, as a result of inspection of the ropeway or any portion thereof, or of any carriers used thereon, the officer making the inspection under clause 20 reports to the Government of Bengal that the ropeway or any part thereof cannot be used without danger to the public, or is no longer in a fit state for the carriage of any specific class of traffic, the said Government may direct that the ropeway or a portion thereof shall be closed to all traffic or to any specified class of traffic.

22. When the ropeway or any portion of it has been closed under clause 21, it shall not be reopened for the public conveyance of goods unless and until it has been inspected again by the officer referred to in clause 20 or any other officer authorised in this behalf, and its opening is sanctioned by the Government of Bengal as a result of such inspection.

23. When the Government of Bengal have under clause 21 prohibited the use of any carrier, the said carrier shall not be used again without further sanction by the said Government.

24. The promoters shall not, without the consent of the Forest officer in charge of the district, cut down or lop any tree growing along or by the side of the ropeway, provided that in case of emergency the promoters may remove or lop branches or any portion of a tree which stands in such a manner as to be a source of danger or impediment to the ropeway traffic, and in any such case they shall without loss of time report their action for confirmation by the Forest officer.

Traffic and traffic working.

25. The ropeway may be used for the purpose of conveying goods traffic only. All goods which will not, in the opinion of the ropeway management and of the Government of Bengal, interfere with the proper and safe running of the ropeway or the safety of the staff or public shall be carried, but the management shall have the right to refuse to carry such goods as are dangerous or obnoxious, or beyond the capacity of the ropeway. At the outset the maximum rate for the carriage of goods is fixed at six annas per maund, but the Government of Bengal reserve the right to increase or lower this rate.

Miscellaneous.

26. The Government of Bengal, or a local authority with the previous sanction of the said Government, shall, by giving to the promoters previous notice in writing of not less than two years, have the option to purchase the ropeway referred to in section 24 of the Act, either on the 31st day of March 1946, or on the 31st day of March in the last year of any subsequent period of ten years on payment of the value of all lands, buildings, works, materials, plant and apparatus of the promoters, suitable to, and used by them for purposes of the undertaking plus 20 per cent. of the value.

27. The promoters are authorised to transfer their entire rights in this undertaking to any other Company to be floated for the purpose of constructing and working the ropeway, and the consideration for such transfer shall be limited to the extent of the actual money spent by the promoters on this undertaking and in obtaining this order.

28. In case it be hereafter found that any portion of the alignment adopted by the promoters for the ropeway interferes with the location of any new lines of railway or roadway or the extension of any existing line of railway or roadway, the alignment occupied by the ropeway shall be forthwith, at the request of the Government of Bengal, abandoned in favour of the railway or the roadway, and the ropeway shall be diverted or altered in such way and in such manner as shall appear to the Inspector or other officer duly appointed in this behalf by the said Government to be fair and proper, provided that the actual cost incurred in this connection shall be borne by the authorities of the said railway or roadway.

29. In the event of any work required by the Act or by this order to be done by the promoters not being done by them, the Government of Bengal may cause a notice to be served on the promoters requiring them, within a period to be prescribed in the said notice, to execute the said work, and if within the period so prescribed such requisition is not complied with, the said Government may cause such work to be done and the cost thereof to be recovered from the promoters. The certificate of the Inspector or other officer appointed by the Government of Bengal in this behalf shall be conclusive evidence that all expenses referred to in such certificate have been incurred in carrying out such work and the promoters shall not be at liberty to dispute the same.

30. The promoters shall adopt and apply all such improvements in the ropeway and in the carriers and appliances thereon as the Government of Bengal may from time to time consider necessary or desirable for the safety or convenience of the public.

31. The promoters shall provide without unreasonable delay such statistics relating to the ropeway or to the traffic thereon as may from time to time be required by the Government of Bengal.

32. It is hereby expressly provided that no concession granted under this order confers on the promoters any exclusive right as carriers over any part of the tract traversed by the ropeway.

Arbitrations.

33. (1) If any dispute, question or controversy shall at any time arise either between the Government of Bengal and the promoters, or the local authorities and the promoters, touching this order, or any clause or thing herein contained, or the construction hereof or any matter connected with this order, or the operation of the same, or the rights, duties, or liabilities of any of the parties in relation to the premises, then, and in every such case the matter in difference, unless special provision shall have been made in this order for the settlement of the matter so in difference, shall be referred to two arbitrators or to an umpire to be appointed by them, pursuant to and so as with regard to the mode and consequences of the reference, and in other respects to conform to the provisions in that behalf contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, so far as the same may be applicable.

(2) Upon every such reference the arbitrators and umpire shall respectively have power in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Arbitration Act, 1899, to examine witnesses upon oath or affirmation, and either to fix, settle, and determine the amount of cost of the reference and award respectively or incidental thereto to be paid by both the parties making the reference or by either party, or to direct the same to be taxed either as between Solicitor and client or otherwise, and to direct and award where and by and to whom such costs shall be paid.

IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Third publication.

No. 21—The 18th January 1929.—The following draft of rules which, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 11 of the Canals Act, 1864 (Bengal Act V of 1864), the Governor in Council intends to make for the regulation of traffic in the line of navigation known as the Mahananda river (100 miles in length) in the districts of Malda and Rajshahi which has been declared under section 2 of the said Act in Bengal Government notification No. 10-I., dated the 18th October 1927, published in Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 27th idem, is hereby published for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

II. The draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 10th April 1929, and any objections or suggestions received by the undersigned before that date will be considered:—

Draft Rules.

1. All vessels, when moored, must be made fast by the bow and stern along the bank so as not to obstruct other vessels passing in the river.

2. In such portions of the river where only one towing path exists, vessels must be moored on the off-side and the towing path side kept clear.

3. Only one vessel is allowed to make fast along and in line with the river banks, and no other vessel is to be made fast or to be placed outside of vessels so secured without the special permission of the Supervisor. No vessel or raft is to be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety, or obstruct the passage, of other vessels, and all vessels are to be moored in such places and in such a manner as the Supervisor may at any time direct.

4. The Supervisor may, by notification, prohibit the dropping of anchors or the erection of bamboos or luggees in or on any portion of the river or banks, and no anchors may be dropped or bamboos or luggees erected at such prohibited sites.

5. No vessel shall be moored at a distance of less than 500 feet from the junction of two or more rivers.

6. Vessels are not permitted to anchor or moor in the restricted portions of the channels maintained by training works.

7. Before entering such restricted channels the person in charge of the vessel must lighten his vessel sufficiently to prevent grounding in the channel.

In the event of any vessel running aground, the person in charge of the vessel must arrange for its immediate release by all means possible, failing which it will be lawful for the Supervisor or his subordinates to arrange to remove such vessel and to recover the costs of such operation from the owner of the vessel as provided for in rule 11 below.

8. No person is allowed to place any obstruction on the river banks so as to impede free passage along them. No person is permitted to place any obstruction in the river bed so as to impede navigation or cause any deterioration of the channel.

9. No person shall wilfully or negligently allow a vessel to sink in the river.

10. In every case of a sunken vessel, whether due to negligence or otherwise, the Supervisor and his subordinates shall offer every assistance in removing the same.

11. If three days after the occurrence of a wreck it is seen that prompt measures are not being taken by the owner to remove the sunken vessel from the line of navigation, the Supervisor and his subordinates shall make their own arrangements for the removal of the same at the expense of the owner, provided that, when the wreck obstructs the fairway, they may take action at once to remove the same.

A notice must be affixed on the wreck when recovered, calling on those concerned to pay to the Supervisor all expenses incurred in the recovery or removal of the wreck, and intimating that if the sum be not paid within fifteen days of the date of notice, the vessel and its furniture, or so much of it as may be necessary for the recovery of the dues, will be sold, the proceeds of the sale being dealt with as directed in section 9 of the Canals Act of 1864.

12. Every Canal Officer is authorized to remove any vessel, anchor, pole or any other thing which he may find in a position in contravention of these rules and to deal with it in such manner as may be necessary to give effect to the rules.

13. Whenever any laden vessel which has been sunk, has been recovered, or when a laden vessel has been seized under the provisions of the Canals Act or of these rules, the Supervisor must give immediate notice of the same to the owner or his agent, calling upon him to remove the cargo without delay and informing him that he will be required to pay all expenses necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo until removed.

14. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and the place of business or abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel seized under the said Act, he must notify the seizure by advertisement in his office and in at least one public newspaper. Such notice shall require the owner to cause the immediate removal of the cargo and to pay all expenses incurred in providing for its proper custody and storage.

15. The Supervisor may incur whatever expenses are necessary for the proper custody and storage of the cargo of any vessel seized under the Act and, if the cargo be not removed within ten days from the date of seizure, he may sell the same at a public auction to be held in his office or at the place of seizure to the highest bidder, after giving ten days' notice of the auction by advertisement in at least one newspaper.

16. The money realized at such a sale is to be applied, in the first instance, to defray any expenditure that may have been incurred by the Supervisor on account of the cargo sold, and the balance, if any, is to be held in deposit to be paid to the owner of the said cargo on his applying for the same.

17. No officer of any description or rank employed on the river shall, either directly or indirectly, bid for or purchase any article sold under these rules or under the provisions of the Act.

18. Any person (other than the Supervisor or his subordinates), who infringes any of these rules, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for any one infringement and to an additional fine at a rate not exceeding five rupees a day if the infringement be continued.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATIONS.

New Delhi, the 25th January 1929.

No. 33-I/29-C & G.—The following interim Report of the Delegates of India to the Ninth Assembly of the League of Nations is published for general information:—

To the Right Honourable the VISCOUNT PEEL, His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

My Lord,

We beg to submit our interim Report on the Ninth (Ordinary) Session of the Assembly of the League of Nations, held at Geneva from the 3rd to the 26th September, at which we had the honour to represent India.

2. This interim Report is intended to give as early an account of our proceedings as possible, and consists of a survey of matters of general interest and a description of those in which the interests of India are affected, and of the part played by the delegates of India in the discussions. We shall, in due course, submit a Final Report, which will contain a complete record of the work of the Assembly together with certain reports of Committees and of speeches and other matter.

The Indian and British Empire Delegations.

3. Numerically the Indian Delegation was the same as in the last two years, consisting of three full and three substitute delegates, but only two of us, the Right Honourable the Earl of Lytton and Sir Edward Chamier, had had previous experience of the work of the Assembly. A meeting of the Delegation was held at the India Office before we left London for Geneva, and certain questions of a general nature were then explained and discussed. It was explained to us that as a delegation we corporately represented India as a whole, and that, while our authority and our instructions emanated formally from the Secretary of State, they were, in fact, the result of discussion and agreement between the Secretary of State and the Government of India. We were also told that it was intended that we should have the fullest amount of practical liberty and independence consistent with the existing constitutional position. A meeting of the Delegation was held on the day on which we reached Geneva, and on the same day we attended a meeting of all the delegations of the British Empire convened by the leader of the British Delegations, Lord Cushendun. Meetings were, as usual, held during the course of the Assembly with a view first to maintaining coherence among ourselves and to presenting a concerted Empire policy in matters in which such a policy is desirable and possible. We particularly wish to record the fact that at meetings of British Empire delegates we were always accorded treatment on a basis of practical equality, and we were entirely satisfied with the consideration which was given to any views expressed by us. Our experience confirms the view of our predecessors of 1927, that "the actual liberty of the Indian Delegation to follow an independent policy corresponds to the liberty which the Indian Delegation would, in fact, exercise if the constitutional status of India within the Empire were different."

4. We were glad to find that the list of accredited journalists, officially published by the Secretariat, contained the names of a larger number of representatives of Indian papers than have, we believe, previously attended the Assembly, and we invited these representatives to meet us both socially and otherwise. We hope that their presence may be regarded as evidence that the Press of India is taking an increasing interest in the work of the League and in the activities of representatives of India at Geneva, and we note, in this connection, that a new post is being created for an Indian in the Information Section of the League Secretariat. This new post should be instrumental in improving the channel for the communication of information on international subjects between India and Geneva.

Opening of the Ninth Session.

5. The proceedings of the Assembly were opened on 3rd September by His Excellency M. H. J. Procopé (Minister of Foreign Affairs of Finland) acting as President of the Council. The credentials of the delegates were verified by a Committee on which His Highness the Nawab of Palanpur served.

6. Fifty States were represented out of a total number of 54 States Members of the League, Spain being represented for the first time since 1926. The Argentine Republic, Bolivia, Honduras, and Peru were the four absentees, but the first-named was represented by an observer. Brazil has now ceased to be a Member of the League, though she has declared her intention of collaborating in certain of its activities. In the course of the Assembly it was announced that Costa Rica, having obtained from the Council a satisfactory declaration on the subject of the Monroe doctrine, proposed to resume her membership. The Assembly was attended by seven present and seven former Prime Ministers, and by 18 present and seven former Ministers of Foreign Affairs. The list included the Prime Minister of Canada and the Chancellors of Germany and Austria. His Excellency M. H. Zahle (Denmark, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Berlin) was elected President by 44 votes out of 50, and the election of Vice-Presidents members of the General Committee and of the Agenda Committee proceeded in accordance with the usual routine, which has been described in reports of previous delegates. We would here mention that these appointments and the similar appointments connected with the six Committees of the Assembly, which are esteemed both for the sake of prestige and for the influence which they carry in the work of the Assembly and the Committee, naturally fall to delegates who have experience of previous Assemblies and whose qualifications are already well known. It is inevitable that Delegations such as ours, of which the membership is far from continuous, should get less than their share of these appointments. This is one of the reasons why we consider that greater continuity of membership would be desirable. It will be obvious that in other ways also greater continuity would increase the effectiveness of the Delegation work.

7. The atmosphere pervading this year's Assembly was described by M. Motta (first delegate of Switzerland, and one of the few who have been present at every session of the Assembly) as calm and tranquil. If this Assembly was not characterised by any single achievement of peculiar significance it will stand comparison with any of its predecessors for progress with a great variety of solid undertakings. It is a common observation that the proceedings of the Assembly are tending to be less sensational and that the Assembly's sessions are coming to be regarded rather as an occasion for reviewing the work of the past year and determining the lines on which work is to be carried out by Conferences, by Committees and by the Secretariat during the coming year, than as an opportunity for introducing and embodying dramatic and far-reaching projects, which may be applauded in the enthusiasm of the moment, but which are afterwards found to be imperfect and premature, defective in their structure or too advanced to be accepted by public opinion and to be ratified by Governments. If there was an attempt in some quarters this year to invest the General Act for Conciliation and Arbitration with an unreal value and importance, that attempt was counteracted and the General Act emerged as an instrument of possible but limited utility and not as one of those vehicles of false hopes, the disappointment of which has in the past furnished the detractors of the League with so much material for criticism. The fact that the Assembly is increasingly concerned with routine is, in our view, less a sign of diminishing importance and vitality than a proof that the League is passing out of its adolescent period and is developing its normal and mature functions as a piece of administrative international machinery.

8. It was perhaps a consequence of the tendency which has been noted that the general debate in the Assembly, with which the session opened, was of less interest than on some former occasions. We shall summarise somewhat briefly its main features before passing to the work of the six Committees.

Arbitration, Security and Disarmament.

9. This composite subject is generally regarded as the most important which the League has in hand, and the three principal pronouncements were those of the German Chancellor, the French Foreign Minister, and the leader of the British Delegation. The most important discussions which took place in Geneva during the course of the Assembly were those between these three delegates and the representatives of other leading Powers on the subjects of the Rhineland occupation, inter-allied debts, and reparations. As, however, these discussions took place in private and were outside the agenda of the Assembly they are beyond the scope of this Report. We shall confine ourselves strictly to the discussions in the Assembly itself.

10. Herr Muller, the Chancellor of the German Reich, taking as the starting point the Pact of Paris for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy, which, he said, had its roots not in the decisions of Cabinets, but in the sentiments which inspired the whole of mankind, maintained that the Pact imposed upon statesmen the task of searching for means of achieving a pacific settlement of disputes and of promoting disarmament. He expressed keen disappointment with the present position of the disarmament question, and stated that the disarmament of Germany could not possibly continue to be a unilateral act, the outcome solely of the power wielded by the victors in the world war, and he demanded a decision as to convening the Disarmament Conference to achieve as a first stage an appreciable reduction in the present standard of armaments and full publicity in regard to all classes of armaments. He finished by contrasting the practical policies of Governments with their advocacy of liberal principles, and said that the ordinary man naturally came to the conclusion that international policy was double-faced.

11. M. Briand, in reply, emphasised the practical difficulties and the impossibility of rapid progress. One obstacle was Russia, which flaunted its increase of armaments and which, though it had signed the Paris Pact, could not be considered to have renounced the kind of war which it regarded as a holy war to enforce the truth of its peculiar political gospel upon the world. It was true that after delay and considerable pressure Germany was disarmed, though not wholly disarmed. She had an army of 100,000 officers and non-commissioned officers and immense resources of men, who for years to come would remain qualified and fit for service. She had also industrial equipment which could rapidly be turned to the production of war material. Competition in armaments was no longer possible. There would soon be a limitation of armaments commensurate with the degree of security obtained. M. Briand urged that unless this atmosphere of peace was to be disturbed the more delicate problems should not be discussed at once.

12. Lord Cushendun argued that the proposition of the German Chancellor, that the most urgent task of the Assembly was to adopt a resolution which would transform its hopes of disarmament into realities, could not be sustained. He reminded the Assembly of the terms of Article 8 of the Covenant and referred to the difficulty for each State of measuring in precise terms the level of armaments necessary for security and of relating the reduction effected by one State with that effected by another in order to arrive at common action. He described concretely some of the difficulties which confronted the Preparatory Commission for the Disarmament Conference, and he invited attention to the large measure of actual disarmament which had been carried out by States on their own authority and without common action, giving details of British naval reductions. He also mentioned the special difficulties occasioned by the fact that various modern weapons, such as lethal gases and aircraft, differ from the old-fashioned weapons by being articles of commerce as well as weapons of war. He ended by describing the Paris Pact as an instrument that proclaimed a new era and created a new outlook.

13. One of the most interesting speeches delivered in the Assembly was that of the Prime Minister of Canada, Mr. Mackenzie King. He spoke of the racial concord between French and British races which had been achieved in Canada and of the undefended frontier of more than 3,000 miles between Canada and the United States of America which symbolised the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy and of the arrangement for preventing the competitive maintenance of vessels of war on the great lakes which has been in force for more than 100 years. In spite of the undefended frontier the element of fear never entered into the calculations of the Canadian Government, and the fact that Canada was free to devote to productive purposes the amounts which the defence of the frontier would cost was the key to their prosperity.

Minorities.

14. Perhaps the most impressive and profound speech delivered in the Assembly was that of Monsgr. Seipel, Chancellor of Austria. In a passage which is worthy of careful study and which cannot adequately be summarised, he referred to the intolerance caused by the inflammation of nationalist spirit, which was characteristic of recent years, as one of the most dangerous causes of political insecurity. He pointed out that the word "nation" might mean either all the citizens of any one country or all the persons of common race and language, and he called attention to the necessity for a better understanding of questions relating to the rights of political minorities. This leads us to say that the Ninth Assembly was characterised by the emergence of the minorities problem on a par with that of disarmament, and it seems possible that the task of adjusting the rights of peoples with those of States, which is the essence of this problem, will prove as much a touchstone of the success of the League as the problem of disarmament itself. The Foreign Minister of the Netherlands threw out the idea of creating for the minorities problem an organ similar to the permanent Mandates Commission. But it became clear from the remark of other speakers that the time was at least not ripe for so profound a change in the treatment of the subject. Under existing political conditions the method of private and informal negotiation, which in fact achieves more than is ordinarily recognised, is the only practical one. But it seems likely that the objections to open and formal treatment will have eventually to be removed. We should perhaps add a note that while it may be profitable to make a comparative study of the question of minorities, as known in India, with that which presents itself to the League in virtue of certain clauses of the Treaties of Peace affecting only European countries, the two problems are distinguished by important differences.

Asiatic Questions.

15. When problems such as those which have been described occupy so much of the attention of the Assembly, it is desirable that the Assembly should be reminded of the rights and desires and circumstances of the non-European members of the League. Accordingly His Highness the Nawab of Palanpur addressed the Assembly in a speech of which a summary follows and of which the text will be printed in our Final Report. On this occasion, as on those of which members of our Delegation spoke in the Committees, we were gratified by the amount of attention with which our remarks were received by other delegates, who always appeared eager to show their interest and sympathy when the views and conditions of the more remote countries were being explained.

16. His Highness the Nawab of Palanpur said that India, with her ancient civilisation and culture and her well-known assimilation of noble ideas, was genuinely interested in the aims and objects of the League and was most anxious to promote the growth of its ideals and activities; interest in the League was increasing in India and would be further developed by the centralisation of League of Nations Societies which had lately taken place in India. He indicated that India had a special interest in and admiration for the work of the League in its aspects of social welfare and public health, instancing under the latter heading the interchange of public health officers which took place in India last winter, the projected visit of the League Malaria Commission to India, the inclusion of rural hygiene in the programme of health organisation and the study of questions connected with infant mortality. In connection with child welfare he mentioned the appointment by the Government of India of the Age of Consent Committee and the passage of Infant Marriage Prevention laws in some of the Indian States. He expressed the hope of India that her altruistic sacrifices in the matter of opium would be met by the co-operation of other countries in suppressing illicit traffic of drugs now that the Opium Convention had received the necessary number of ratifications and the Central Board was about to be set up. He hoped that the growth of interest in India in the activities of the League would not be checked by irritation at the continual increase in the annual contribution of India to the funds of the League, and he said that India looked forward to the time when Indians would rise to high office in the employment of the League, worthy of the country of their birth. Finally, he alluded to the suspicion which existed in certain quarters in the East that the League was intended for use as an instrument for perpetuating the hegemony of the races which were of European origin over the other races. He did not believe that this view could be honestly entertained by anybody who studied the facts deeply and without prejudice, but he said that the suspicion needed to be dispelled by the solid evidence of facts. Sentiments of racial inequality were a possible cause of insecurity, lying even deeper than those which the League was at present engaged in studying and capable of producing results even more disastrous. These sentiments might, unless appeased, again divide the world into hostile camps. The League was based on the conception of universal equality and he believed that great possibilities for the League's work would come into view as soon as a general conviction existed in the Orient that the League was in the fullest sense an association of equal peoples with equal obligations and equal rights, affording equal opportunities to all its members irrespective of racial origin to work harmoniously for the great objects laid down in the Covenant.

17. At this point we would refer to the speech of the first delegate for China, although it was actually the first to be delivered in the general debate in the Assembly. Those who are familiar with the terms of the Covenant, including Article 19, under which the Assembly may advise the reconsideration by Members of the League of treaties which have become inapplicable, and who appreciate the actual achievement of international organisations in technical spheres such as the restoration of national finances, the regulation of transit problems, the campaign against epidemics and against the opium traffic, have been struck by the possibilities of service which the League might render in China to the advantage both of the world and of China herself. The realisation of this possibility, which necessarily awaits the initiative of China, now appears faintly on the horizon. The Chinese delegate admitted that the League was making further progress towards universality, and declared that when this character of universality was finally attained the League would have no more fervent supporter than China. He acknowledged that there was a big opening for the technical and financial assistance of the West in China when the antiquated barriers which had hitherto prevented closer co-operation between China and the outside world had disappeared, and he was convinced that the League must be the intermediary if East and the West were to meet on common ground.

Election of Non-Permanent Members of Council.

18. It has proved to be a misfortune that China was elected to the Council two years ago at a time when her Government was insufficiently stable and representative to play her part adequately in this capacity. There was this year a widespread view that as the Nationalist Government in China appeared now to be well on the way to consolidating its position, it was desirable that China should be retained on the Council both as a gesture of sympathy and encouragement, and with a view to facilitating the prospect of co-operation between China and the League. But under the Rules for Election which were approved in 1926, it was necessary that China, before presenting herself for re-election, should obtain a two-thirds majority of the Assembly in favour of re-eligibility. This majority she failed to obtain, her application receiving 27 votes against 34 required, and the result showed that the sentiment in favour of rotation among non-permanent Members of the Council, which had operated against the re-election of Belgium last year, was stronger than the desire that for special reasons China should remain on the Council. At the eventual election the three vacancies which arose this year were filled by Spain, who received 46 votes, Persia 40 votes, and Venezuela 35 votes. Spain was later under a special procedure declared re-eligible for election at the end of her present term, after a ballot in which her application received 37 votes as against 32 required.

Election to Vacancy in Permanent Court of International Justice.

19. We need only record the election of Mr. C. E. Hughes, former Secretary of State of the United States of America, and former Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States of America, by the unanimous vote of the Council and by 41 out of 48 votes in the Assembly.

Work of the Six Committees.

COMMITTEE I.—Legal and Constitutional Questions.

PROGRESSIVE CODIFICATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

(a) Preparation for first Codification Conference.

21. The Assembly of 1927 had decided that of the various questions which had been studied by the Committee of Experts, of which Sir Muhammad Rafique is a member, three should be selected for consideration at an international conference. These three subjects were as follows:—

(1) Nationality.
(2) Territorial waters.
(3) Responsibility of States for damage done in their territory to the person or property of foreigners.

The Council had appointed a small Preparatory Committee for the Conference which is to deal with these three subjects and this Committee had drawn up for each of the subjects a schedule indicating the various points considered suitable for examination. These schedules had been sent through the Secretariat to the Governments, with the object of eliciting from the latter information as to the existing state of the positive law, internal and international, information derived from the practice of Governments at home and abroad, and the wishes of Governments in regard to possible additions to the rules in force and the manner of making good present deficiencies in international law. The Governments are now engaged in furnishing this material, and the general desire of the first Committee was to approve the procedure which had been followed, and to expedite the development of it so that the Conference might take place without fail before the end of 1929. We ourselves were opposed to the attempt to make obligatory the holding of the Conference in 1929, both because there was a considerable chance that such a course would be confronted by difficulties of a practical nature, and because the Fourth Committee had passed a resolution desiring that the other Committees would examine carefully all measures involving expenditure with particular reference to the question of conferences, of which a large number were projected for 1929. Sir Edward Chamier expressed this view on our behalf, adding further an objection to the extra expense involved in the intention of holding the conference at The Hague rather than at Geneva. We were not favourably impressed by the attitude of the First Committee to the plea. But a compromise, of which the effect is satisfactory, was eventually reached after prolonged discussion in the Fourth Committee. This will be described later.

(b) Preparatory Work for further Conferences.

22. The Assembly of 1927 had decided, after considerable discussion, that the Committee of Experts should hold a further meeting this year with a view to completing the work already begun. The Committee had held their meeting, and had recorded the view that two further questions were sufficiently ripe for international regulation, namely:—

(1) The legal position and functions of consuls, and
(2) The competence of the Courts in regard to foreign States.

The Committee had also issued a new questionnaire dealing with the subject of domicile. The resolution of the Assembly of 1927 did not seem to contemplate a further meeting of the Committee of Experts in 1929, but the Estimates for 1929 contained a credit for 45,000 francs for the purpose of another meeting, pending a decision of the Assembly. The First Committee recommended that the Assembly should adjourn till its session of 1929, the question whether it was necessary to convene the Committee of Experts again, and the proposed credit was reduced by 86,000 francs.

(c) Establishment of a General Plan of Codification.

23. The First Committee had also to consider the opinion expressed by the Committee of Experts on a proposal which had been submitted to the Assembly of 1927 by the delegate of Paraguay for the preparation of a general and comprehensive plan for the codification of International Law. The decision of the First Committee, which was confirmed by the Assembly, was to the effect that there should be no change in the method of codification adopted in 1924, but that the Council might be requested to entrust to a committee of three jurists, to be chosen preferably from the members of the Committee of Experts, the Establishment of a systematic survey of the subject.

PACIFIC SETTLEMENT OF INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES.

24. A great part of the attention of the First Committee was occupied with the results of the work of the Committee on Arbitration and Security on the subjects of pacific settlement, mutual assistance and non-aggression, which were referred to the First Committee by the Third Committee for consideration in their technical aspects. Although the main responsibility for examining and revising the texts fell upon the First Committee, we shall postpone the treatment of this question until we come to our report on the work of the Third Committee, as it came in the first instance before the Third Committee and was reported upon to the Assembly by the Third Committee. Moreover, it would be practically impossible to describe separately the work of the two Committees on these subjects, as, in the later stages, the two Committees sat jointly, and much of the detailed work was carried out by a Sub-Committee on which the First and Third Committees were represented.

COMMITTEE II.—Technical Organisations.

WORK OF THE ECONOMIC ORGANISATION.

25. Our predecessors of last year described the development of this Organisation, which followed from the work of the International Economic Conference of 1927. The general history of the movement, which the Economic Organisation represents, was admirably described by M. Loucheur (France) in his report to this year's Assembly as follows:

"In the first years following the war the exceptional circumstances and special necessities of the war period continued to dominate the economic policy of the nations. If international action was required during this first period it was not in the economic, but in the financial, sphere. The disorganisation of the monetary systems constituted a more serious obstacle to the work of reconstruction than any of the hindrances to be encountered in the sphere of economic policy. During these first few years the League of Nations therefore paved the way for financial reconstruction; to-day the success of this work is manifest. Its economic work was necessarily more modest and rather of a preparatory character. But in 1927 this initial period was nearly closed; the depreciation of currencies had ceased to be the most serious difficulty; it was becoming evident that the sphere of economic policy was the one in which progress was now called for . . . . . The Conference of 1927 did not, properly speaking, create a new force; its main function was to reveal display and mobilise existing forces. It was under the impulsion of a movement of public opinion that the present programme of the Organisation was drawn up. Thus the effect of the Conference has been a transformation rather than an ordinary normal development of the tasks devolving upon the Economic Organisation."

26. The already existing Economic Committee was reconstituted and a new Economic Consultative Committee was created. The Economic Committee consists almost entirely of high Government officials, who, though acting in their personal capacities, serve to bring the experience and indirectly the authority of Governments to bear upon the international economic problems which the League has in hand. The Economic Consultative Committee consists rather of eminent persons who represent varied and even conflicting economic tendencies and interests, and it serves to maintain contact between the League and public opinion. During the last twelve months India has obtained representation on both these bodies, in the person of Mr. H. A. F. Lindsay, Indian Trade Commissioner in London, on the former and of Sir Atul Chatterjee, High Commissioner for India, on the latter. India has, moreover, been honoured by the appointment of Sir Atul Chatterjee as Vice-President of the Economic Consultative Committee. There is no doubt in our minds that the intention of the Economic Organisation is to pursue as broad and universal a policy as possible, that it aims at taking equal account of, and, if necessary, reconciling the interests of industrial and agricultural countries, of countries whose economic development is mature and of those which are in the early stages. It is however, very necessary that all points of view and interests should receive full and competent expression, and we feel that India should be well satisfied that she is in a position to play an important, if not conspicuous, rôle in representing the point of view of the overseas countries.

27. We cannot briefly and without recourse to technical detail describe the great variety of tasks which the Economic Organisation now has in hand. Those who desire fuller information are referred to the Report of the Second Committee to the Assembly, which will be reprinted in our Final Report. We will, however, summarise the speech which Mr. Mallik delivered in the Second Committee.

28. Mr. Mallik first expressed recognition of the appointments of Sir Atul Chatterjee and Mr. Lindsay. With regard to the work of the Economic Conference of 1927, he said that the Government of India had studied its report further and the study had confirmed their view that the recommendations of the Conference were in general conformity with the principles and practices already followed in India. They were prepared to accept, so far as possible, any Conventions or other proposals put forward to give effect to the specific recommendations of the Conference. The policy of India would continue to be conducted in accordance with principles of which the Conference had expressed its approval and with every desire to co-operate in the solution of particular problems.

29. He then drew attention to the interests to be safeguarded from the point of view of India and other similarly situated countries. Firstly, countries which have hitherto been essentially a source of raw materials must not be hindered in their legitimate desire for industrial development. There must be no tendency to stabilise the status quo as between manufacture and production of raw materials. India claimed as legitimate the right to adjust her tariff system so as to maintain the balance between agriculture and industry. Secondly, the formulation of commercial policy must take equal account of industrial and of agricultural or raw material producing interests. It was well known that since 1914 the price of manufactured goods had risen by a greater margin than that of agricultural products and raw materials. This was not only inequitable to the producer of raw materials, but had also reduced the market for the manufactured article. The interests of the two classes were therefore fundamentally similar and the essential problem was to reduce the margin of prices. This could only be done if as much attention was given to agricultural problems and interests as to those of industry. A solution along two lines was indicated:—

(a) The study of agricultural problems must be developed. While this was mainly a domestic problem, which, in India, had recently been investigated by a Royal Commission, international action could no doubt make a substantial contribution, and herein lies the importance of developing the work of the Economic Organisation on the side of agriculture, with which was connected the question of introducing closer relations between the League and the Institute of Agriculture at Rome.

(b) The primary producer must be made an interested party in all efforts towards the removal of impediments to trade. This was a matter partly of propaganda for the creation of public opinion and partly of the practical association of the interests of the primary producer with those of the manufacturer and the trader in the formulation of commercial policy, especially in the case of tariffs. In pursuance of these views Mr. Mallik put forward two amendments to the draft resolution which was before the Committee. Finally, Mr. Mallik emphasised the necessity of not allowing the impression to be created in any State that their material interests were being over-ridden or neglected in the hurry to bring about an economic millennium, and he expressed agreement with the remarks of other speakers in the debate in favour of restraint being exercised on the part of the Economic Organisation, as it would be most unfortunate that it should be overloaded with work or that too much should be expected from it at once.

30. The object of the first amendment to the draft resolution which Mr. Mallik submitted, and which was accepted, was simply to reproduce accurately the attitude adopted by the Eighth Assembly to the resolutions of the Conference of 1927. The second amendment was intended in the first place to emphasise and to obtain express recognition of the view that full account must be taken of the interests of States which are mainly agricultural or in the early stages of industrial development, and in the second place to draw attention to the importance of advancing the study of agricultural problems on an international basis. This amendment, which we regard as of some importance, responded not only to the needs of our own country, but also to a considerable extent, we believe, to the views of certain other delegates, notably those of the Irish Free State, who expressed considerable apprehension that there might be a tendency in international action for the circumstances and needs of the economically weaker countries to be disregarded and even adversely affected. The readiness with which our amendment was accepted is noteworthy, and clause 10 of the Assembly Resolution on the work of the Economic Organisation, in which it is embodied, should prove a useful basis for further developments.

31. It is convenient at this stage to refer briefly to certain interesting points in the speeches made in the Assembly, when the report of the Second Committee was presented. Dr. Breitscheid (Germany) called attention to a report of the Tariff Board of the Australian Commonwealth for 1927, which details the consequences of excessive protection in the Commonwealth. M. Jouhaux (France), who is the most authoritative spokesman of organised labour on the Continent of Europe, voiced certain apprehensions that the processes of rationalisation and cartelisation (i.e., the formation of co-operative relations between individual concerns) in industry might be pushed forward without regard to the general interest of the public and that some measure of international control was required. M. Loucheur (France), who is to a large extent the originator and promoter of the recent development of the Economic Organisation, supported M. Jouhaux as to the need of control, and indicated the possibility that the Economic Organisation might in the future require a more elaborate structure. He made some remarks, which are interesting with reference to Mr. Mallik's speech in the Second Committee, to the effect that no efforts should be made at crystallising existing situations which would condemn the countries of younger economic development to remain in their present undeveloped condition, that such nations should not be hindered from reconstructing their economic production should they desire to do so, and that any tendency at stabilisation or crystallisation in these directions would be harmful and must not be contemplated.

WORK OF THE FINANCIAL COMMITTEE.

32. The work of the Financial Committee during the last 12 months was mainly concerned with the refugee problems of Greece and Bulgaria and with the loans connected with the settlement of refugees and the stabilisation of the currencies of these two countries. This work has been attended by conspicuous success and is of great value, not only for the prosperity of these two countries and of all other countries which are in economic relations with them, but also for the general cause of political security and pacification. Both countries have also benefited in the last year from the co-operation of the Health Organisation. This work has no close or direct bearing on the special interests of India and we do not therefore describe it in detail. But those who wish to appreciate the possibility and success of international action through the League in technical spheres should certainly make a study of these achievements. The reports of the Second Committee on these subjects will be printed with our Final Report.

33. The Financial Committee is engaged on various other problems, one of which may prove to be of special interest to India, namely, that of the purchasing power of gold. The Council has invited the Financial Committee to examine to what extent and by what means the League can most usefully assist in the study and solution of the problem of undue fluctuations in the purchasing power of gold, and the present stage of the matter is that the Committee have carried out a first exchange of views as to the best method of arranging for a study of the various questions involved and have requested the Secretariat to compile certain information.

34. When the work of the Financial Committee came before the Second Committee, Mr. Yusuf Ali made a speech, of which the following are the main points. He said that India, although not directly interested, for geographical reasons, in the work carried out in connection with refugees and currency stabilisation, welcomed it and took note of its great success. The best testimony to its success was the fact that one country after another had applied to the League for assistance. He said that the question of double taxation and fiscal evasion did not arise in a practical form in the case of India except in relation with other parts of the British Empire, and was, therefore, not for India an international problem. He spoke also of the interest of India in connection with the question of gold and with that of Central Bank statistics, and in conclusion he bore testimony to the important work of the Financial Committee in the after-war reconstruction of the world.

WORK OF THE HEALTH ORGANISATION.

35. The work of the Health Organisation has figured prominently in the reports of our predecessors because this Organisation was the first and, up to now, has been the most successful of the League Organisations to put its work on a really world-wide basis and to direct its attention to problems and activities which are the concern as much of Asia as of Europe. It has established an Epidemiological Bureau at Singapore, which, having succeeded in the collection and transmission of information from the majority of ports in its area, is now being furnished with intelligence relating to the hinterland of ports and to countries as a whole. The Bureau furnishes to Eastern Governments information which is necessary for effective action against epidemic diseases. The Health Organisation also organises a system of public health interchanges which consist really of study tours in which medical and sanitary experts of different countries participate with a view to gaining and imparting knowledge and experience which has accumulated in different countries on particular subjects and aspects of sanitary and scientific work. One of these tours was successfully carried out in India last winter and was attended by the President of the Health Committee and by representatives of many Eastern health administrations. This is the first occasion on which an activity of the League has been organised in India. The Organisation is also conducting studies of Malaria, Plague, Cholera, Leprosy, Infant Welfare and Rural Hygiene. The cardinal principle of the Health Organisation, as of every League technical organisation, is to promote and co-ordinate contacts between national organisations rather than to supersede them or to attempt to act as a central authority. A full account of its methods and activities is contained in an unusually interesting report submitted to the Assembly on behalf of the Second Committee by Professor O'Sullivan (Ireland), which will be printed with our Final Report.

36. Mr. Mallik made a speech on the subject in the Second Committee in which he began by congratulating Professor O'Sullivan on his report, and especially on the emphasis which he had given to the subject of rural hygiene. He then went on to express deep appreciation of the humanitarian side of the work of the Organisation and congratulated it on paying attention rather to quality than quantity. He referred particularly to the Singapore Bureau, to the system of interchange tours, which was particularly beneficial to a country like India, in placing at her disposal the experience of other countries, to the problem of malaria, which was the cause of so much devitalisation, and economic loss in India, to the Government of India's invitation that the Malaria Commission should visit India, to the work on plague which is being carried out in India, especially in regard to the possibility of developing the bacteriophage method, and to the work on leprosy, which, though it is being taken up primarily as a measure of collaboration between the League and the countries of Latin America, would also be of advantage to India. He said that the question of rural hygiene which the League was beginning to study had recently been a subject of consideration by the Royal Commission on Agriculture in India, which had indicated the serious consequences of neglect, and he observed that the study of this subject by the interchange method would produce results of value to India. Finally, he submitted a proposal, which was accepted, that the resolution of the Assembly on the work of the Health Committee should contain a clause congratulating the Organisation on the increasing success of its far-sighted policy of practical collaboration with the extra-European countries. We believe that this compliment has been well earned and we hope that other Organisations of the League will be inspired to qualify themselves for a similar compliment in the near future.

ORGANISATION FOR COMMUNICATIONS AND TRANSIT.

37. This Organisation has a considerable mass of technical work in hand, but much of it is of no direct importance to India, and there are no developments of special significance to record. It will suffice to illustrate the main features by the following summary of some brief remarks made by Mr. Yusuf Ali. He said that although India had few important communications of an international character by land she recognised the advantage of securing a uniform system of road signals. India has, on the other hand, international maritime communications of great importance, and the principle of unifying systems of buoyage and of the lighting of coasts, on which the League was working, presented primâ facie many advantages. Before, however, practical agreement could be achieved the Transit Organisation would have to find a solution satisfactory to two of the most important maritime nations of the world, namely, Great Britain and the United States of America, and until this was done his Government hesitated to regard the scheme as a practical proposition. It was understood that the scheme was in the course of undergoing considerable modification. Mr. Yusuf Ali further stated that the proposals for the simplification of the Christian Calendar were not of primary importance to India in view of the multiplicity of calendars connected with other religions which prevailed. The Government of India had consulted commercial opinion on the subject and had found it either hostile or indifferent. He finally entered a caveat with regard to the new credits demanded for the collection and exchange of information on transit questions which he said would have to be examined carefully by the Fourth Committee.

RELATIONS BETWEEN THE LEAGUE AND INSTITUTES UNDER ITS AUTHORITY.

38. This question arose out of an offer made in 1927 by the Italian Government to set up an Institute for the Educational Cinema under the auspices of the League, which had aroused certain misgivings as to the reality of the international character which the Institute would possess and as to its relations with other international bodies, in particular with the Organisation for Intellectual Co-operation, which had already interested itself in the subject of cinematography. The Assembly had under consideration a report which had been referred to it by the Council. This report divided the subject matter into two categories: (1) the principles to be followed in placing international bureaux under the protection of the League in accordance with the general provision of Article 24 of the Covenant, and (2) the general rules to govern the acceptance of international institutes by the League which were not intended for direction under Article 24. In regard to bureaux falling under the first category no question of difficulty arose. The important principle is that the League should see that the Organisation always preserves a strictly international character and that its work is carried on in an efficient manner and that the direction of the League must be established by a definite legal act. Under the second category, that in which it is proposed to create institutes under the auspices of the League but not under its direction the rules are based on three principles, namely, that the object of the institute must come within the sphere of activity of the League of Nations, the institute serving as a working instrument; that the legal status of the institute should provide for its independence vis-à-vis the local authorities; and that the constitution of the institute should be such that the League organs can exercise supervision over its work. Examples of institutes of this character already established are the Institute for Intellectual Co-operation, the Institute for the Unification of Private Law and the Institute for the Educational Cinema. It is contemplated that the Institute of Agriculture at Rome should be brought within this category in the near future. There is, in our view, a danger that the supervisory staff of such institutes may not be sufficiently international, and this is partly a matter of finance, as an international staff costs more than a national one. We were anxious that the rules should provide that the superior staff of such institutes should be recruited on an international basis and the institutes themselves assured of sufficient funds to render the employment of an international staff possible. Mr. Yusuf Ali and the British delegate made suggestions to this end. There were formal difficulties to the acceptance of these suggestions in exactly the form that we should have desired, but satisfaction was given to our point of view in the report presented by the Second Committee to the Assembly and approved.

ALCOHOLISM.

39. Our immediate predecessors described how the proposal of the Finnish Delegation, that the League should take up generally the question of alcoholism with special reference to the international control of smuggling, and should create a special Advisory Body for the purpose, met with considerable opposition in 1927, was withdrawn, and was replaced by a similar proposal in a new form to be considered this year. Before this proposal came before the Second Committee this year the chief protagonists, Finland and France, had come together and drawn up a compromise to the effect that the Health Organisation should collect statistical information bearing upon the abuse of alcohol and particularly of alcohol of bad quality, and that the Economic Committee should study the terms in which conventions for preventive action against the contraband trade might be drawn up. The text of the resolution concluded with the remark that it did not refer to wine, beer or cider. It will be noted that this compromise greatly restricts the scope of the enquiry and utilises only existing machinery. It naturally met with a lukewarm reception in the Second Committee but as no one felt inclined to awaken a troublesome controversy by pressing objections, it was accepted. There was no necessity for us to intervene in the debate. We need not comment on the solution adopted except to say that for the sake of producing the appearance of satisfaction to contending parties it imposed upon two League Organisations, whose programmes are already sufficiently arduous, enquiries which are never likely to lead to practical results.

COMMITTEE III—Reduction of Armaments.

WORK OF THE PREPARATORY COMMISSION FOR THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

40. The Assembly was faced with the fact that during the past year the League had not made any direct progress with this all-important question. The Preparatory Commission had met twice, and after its second session in March had adjourned, leaving its President free to fix the date of the next session. The debate in the Third Committee turned largely on the question of fixing dates for the next meeting of the Preparatory Commission and for the meeting of the Disarmament Conference itself. The French Delegation desired a recommendation which would hasten the solution of the difficulties which hinder the progress of the work and which are the subject of negotiations between the Governments principally concerned, so that the Commission might meet at the end of the present year or at the beginning of next year. The German Delegation recognised the importance and desirability of direct negotiations between the Governments, but considered that if such negotiations were not attended by early success the Disarmament Conference should itself decide those which were left unsettled, and they wished the Council to be requested to fix a date for the meeting of the Disarmament Conference in 1929. The resolution eventually adopted, although the German delegate abstained from voting for it, proposed to the Council that the President of the Preparatory Commission should be instructed to keep himself informed of the negotiations proceeding between Governments with a view to convening the Commission at the end of the present year or, in any case, at the beginning of 1929. The Third Committee was unanimous in thinking that the present situation was such as to allow of definite results being obtained in connection with the first step towards the reduction and limitation of armaments, and it noted further that the various difficulties which had hitherto held up the Preparatory Commission's work were beginning to diminish. Unfortunately events since the Assembly in connection with the Anglo-French arrangement for the treatment of trained reserves and the method of effecting naval disarmament have not tended to confirm this latter view.

PACIFIC SETTLEMENT OF INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES.

41. The Assembly of 1927 had authorised the Preparatory Committee for the Disarmament Conference to create a new Committee, which has become known as the Committee on Arbitration and Security, for the purpose of considering "the measures capable of giving to States the guarantees of arbitration and security necessary to enable them to fix the level of their armaments at the lowest possible figures in an international disarmament agreement." The Assembly had further recorded its opinion that these measures should be sought "in action by the League of Nations, with a view to promoting, generalising and co-ordinating special or collective agreements on arbitration and security." The Committee on Arbitration and Security had accordingly prepared two groups of model treaties, one relating to arbitration and conciliation and the other to non-aggression and mutual assistance, together with draft resolutions regarding the submission and recommendation of these treaties and the good offices of the Council. It had also prepared a resolution concerning the optional clause of Article 36 of the Statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

42. The texts concerning non-aggression and mutual assistance and also that concerning the optional clause were passed without much controversy, and, as the interest mainly centred upon arbitration and conciliation, we shall confine ourselves to that subject in our Interim Report, leaving it to our Final Report to record formally the resolutions passed on the first-mentioned subjects.

43. The Committee on Arbitration and Security had prepared six model conventions for the pacific settlement of international disputes, three of which were model general or multi-lateral conventions and three were model bi-lateral conventions. The three texts in each group were designed so as to vary with the different degrees in which States might be prepared to accept obligations for the settlement of disputes by pacific methods either in regard to other States generally or in regard to particular States. These texts were first considered in detail by a Sub-Committee, consisting of members appointed both by the First and the Third Committees.

44. The Sub-Committee found no great difficulty in regard to the three model bi-lateral conventions. These texts were nothing but models designed for the convenience and assistance of States wishing to enter into arrangements with each other for the pacific settlement of disputes and preferring the bi-lateral method. If States desire to use these models, they may use them as they stand or with any modifications that may be desired.

45. But in the case of the texts intended for general or multi-lateral use two important points came to light. In the first place it became clear that these texts were not "models" in the sense in which the term was applied to the bi-lateral texts. They were prepared for adoption by the League sooner or later in a form which would be final and operative and in which States who were prepared to do so could definitely adhere to them. In the second place it became clear that the object to be attained, which was that of bringing as many States as possible together in some common arrangement for the settlement of disputes, would not be attained with three separate texts lacking any organic connection. One State might adhere to the first text, another to the second and another to the third; and although there would be some common, if not co-extensive, measure of willingness to submit disputes to a pacific method of settlement, there would be no actual obligation or provision for doing so in three such cases. Some link or fusion was therefore necessary.

46. The Sub-Committee eventually decided upon and produced a text, in which the three original texts were fused together into a single General Act. The General Act is not a draft for negotiation or for signature with ratification to follow; it is for acceptance in a single operation. But it need not be accepted in whole. Provisions for conciliation may be accepted or provisions for conciliation and judicial settlement or provisions for conciliation, judicial settlement and arbitration, together with, in each case, common general provisions applying to each or all of these three methods. Further, acceptance can be made subject to certain specified reservations. The text consists of 47 articles, and, as might be expected, is extremely elaborate and ingenious and certainly provides a considerable degree of elasticity.

47. The first thing that impressed us, when this remarkable draft was presented for general discussion, was that it was something essentially different from the three so-called model general conventions which had been prepared by the Committee on Arbitration and Security and sent to the Sub-Committee. We were of opinion that a text so novel, so ingenious and so complicated ought to be submitted to the most careful technical examination, not only of experts, but of Governments, before being finally adopted by the League. We believed that further reflection was desirable in order that an instrument acceptable to the largest possible number of Governments might be produced and in order that the League might be saved from the risk of once more making the mistake of producing an important convention which might not be adequately justified in the extent to which it was afterwards found acceptable. This opinion was shared by other delegations, including most, but not all, the delegations of the British Empire, and it was a question whether we should insist upon the text being put back for examination by Governments and for further consideration at the next Assembly. On the other hand, we knew that our Government favoured the bi-lateral method and was not likely to be practically interested in a multi-lateral instrument on this subject in whatever terms it might be adopted, and we did not wish to create a false impression that India might eventually adhere to the General Act if its terms could be further examined and perhaps modified to meet any views which might be expressed on behalf of the Government of India. We decided eventually, as did others of the same opinion, not to press our view, but to content ourselves with recording our apprehensions and the fact that our reason for not demanding more thorough examination was the improbability of our Government finding themselves able to adhere to the Act. Sir Edward Chamier spoke to this effect and protested against the undue haste with which the matter was being treated. At one stage when intricate points of drafting were being discussed in a meeting attended by nearly 100 delegates, the translation of a speech into English was dispensed with for the sake of saving time, against which also Sir Edward Chamier protested.

48. There was, without doubt, a certain pressure to obtain the adoption of the text at all costs and to magnify its importance. There was also at one stage a disposition to regard the multi-lateral type of treaty as a more civilised and enlightened mode of procedure than the bi-lateral type. This the British delegate, supported by Sir Edward Chamier and others, took steps to correct, and the report adopted by the Assembly recognised the bi-lateral method as in no way inferior to or less commendable than the other.

49. We think it desirable at this point to mention that the hurried adoption of a complicated text in order to secure unanimity in the first instance has sometimes in the past resulted in a convention failing to secure subsequent ratification. There is, we fear, a danger that a similar regrettable consequence may result from the inadequacy of the discussion which took place this year over the General Act. We believe that some of the existing conventions which have been ratified by only a few States would have secured more complete support if their terms had been more carefully considered and discussed in the first instance. There is a very natural impatience in the Assembly of any demand for delay which would have the effect of preventing a final draft being agreed upon in the course of the session, but experience has shown that even the loss of a year in agreeing the original draft would be preferable to the inability to ratify, which results from a too hasty agreement. The present procedure seems to require some modification, and we consider that any Government which took well-considered steps to promote this end would do the League a useful service.

ARTICLES 10, 11 AND 16 OF THE COVENANT.

50. The Committee on Arbitration and Security has been studying these articles of the Covenant and the results of their study came up for consideration and approval. We do not here propose to offer the long and technical examination which would be necessary for a proper understanding of the subject, but we would call attention to the main tendencies of the present time, which are to concentrate rather upon the means of preventing war than on the application of measures of repression; to avoid the establishment of a hard-and-fast procedure to be applied on the occurrence of a crisis; and to recognise that for the States Members of the League taken as a whole the Covenant both provides an adequate measure of security and is the limit of the obligation which they are prepared to accept. The resolution adopted by the Ninth Assembly may be taken as representing reaction from the Geneva Protocol of 1924.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO STATES VICTIMS OF AGGRESSION.

51. This scheme, which arose out of a proposal of the Finnish delegates submitted to the Preparatory Commission for the Disarmament Conference in regard to the financial assistance provided for under Article 16 of the Covenant, has been worked out mainly by the Financial Committee of the League in collaboration with the Committee on Arbitration and Security. The general idea of the scheme is that of assisting a country, which is the victim of aggression and might otherwise find difficulty in borrowing, by the association in its financial operations of the Members of the League so that the credit of the individual country may be strengthened by association with that of other States. It is contemplated that credits should be obtained in the ordinary way in the money market and that the attacked State should itself contract a loan on the security of its general revenues, but with the aid of an international guarantee.

52. The technical examination of the scheme had revealed points on which decisions of the Assembly were required. The Third Committee recommended, and the Assembly agreed, that it should be understood that the Convention in which the scheme would eventually be embodied would come within the framework of the League's general programme for the limitation and reduction of armaments; further, that the scheme should provide for assistance not only in the case of war as contemplated in Article 16 of the Covenant, but also in the case of threat of war, as referred to in Article 11; and finally, that the Council should have authority to decide upon the application of the scheme to a particular case without the necessity of obtaining the previous assent of signatories of the Convention who do not happen to be represented on the Council at the time.

53. These decisions will enable the technical bodies to complete their preparation of the scheme which will come before the Disarmament Conference or a Special Conference of Government delegates in due course. Until then Governments are in no way committed to it except in so far as they have agreed that the preparation should proceed on the lines indicated above. Lord Lytton spoke with the object of making this point clear. While expressing sympathy with the general objects of the scheme, he said that it was most important, both in general and in this particular case, that Governments should have the fullest opportunity for examining the details of any particular convention, as he thought that there had been too many cases of conventions in which enthusiasm for a particular policy and desire to secure unanimity at the outset had operated against sufficient attention being paid to details which might subsequently prove to be obstacles to ratification.

CONSTRUCTION OF LEAGUE WIRELESS STATION.

54. As part of the measures designed to enable the organs of the League to operate promptly and effectively on the occurrence of international crises, the Advisory and Technical Committee for Communications and Transit had been studying the question of providing the League with its own wireless station. The Committee on Arbitration and Security had passed a resolution which emphasised the desirability of taking steps to put into effect certain schemes concerning the communications of the League in cases of emergency, more particularly as regards the establishment of a radio station. Two proposals were laid before the Assembly—one providing for a station belonging permanently to the League, and the other a station consisting of short wave and medium wave apparatus to be equipped and operated in ordinary times by the Swiss administration, and to be handed over in time of emergency to the exclusive control of the League. The capital cost of first scheme was estimated to be about 2,000,000 francs capital and about 100,000 francs nett recurring. The second scheme would have cost much less, as the local authorities are prepared to put up and run a medium wave station as a commercial enterprise, and the cost to the League would arise almost entirely out of the addition to the medium wave station of a short wave station, which was represented as being desirable, if not necessary, for communication with the more distant countries. There was some doubt, however, as to the accuracy of the estimates and as to the necessity and utility of the proposed short wave station. Further, a legal difficulty arose on account of the peculiar neutral status of Switzerland as to the control of the station when taken over by the League for use in time of emergency.

55. We had been instructed to oppose any scheme which would throw considerable additional charges upon the League Budget in normal times, and we had been informed that there was not at present in India any station with which it would be possible to arrange for reciprocation with the proposed station at Geneva. Lord Lytton made a speech when the matter came before the Third Committee in which he first of all protested against the view which had been expressed that the question of principle had already been decided when the Assembly resolved last year to authorise the preparation of the scheme. He said that he would object to further examination of the scheme if that meant that the principle would not remain open to discussion. He pointed out that the operation of a wireless station depended upon the co-operation of two parties, and that, while the problems connected with the station at Geneva had received much attention, the actual possibilities of reciprocal action in the countries with which it was desired to communicate had not been fully explored. He hoped that the Committee which was to pursue the enquiry would take steps to ascertain how far the various Governments were at present in a position to deal with communications from a station at Geneva.

56. Eventually the Assembly decided to place the matter on the Agenda of its Tenth Session and requested the Council to have a further study undertaken. Meanwhile the Swiss authorities intend to proceed with the establishment of a medium wave station near Geneva on a commercial basis and terms will be arranged for the use of it by the League.

SUPERVISION OF THE PRIVATE MANUFACTURE AND PUBLICITY OF THE MANUFACTURE OF ARMS.

57. This subject has long been under the consideration of the League. Agreement is important, not only intrinsically, but for the effect which it would have on the ratification of the Convention on the International Trade in Arms of 1925 and on the general disarmament position. A Special Committee was convened in 1927 and drew up a draft Convention which, in important respects, was not unanimous. The Special Committee met again just before the Ninth Assembly and still found itself unable to reconcile the different points of view. While the principle of publicity has been accepted for Government manufactures, differences of opinion remain as regards the extent of such publicity. The Assembly decided to request the Council to make an immediate appeal to the Governments represented on the Special Committee to re-examine the points on which differences still existed in the hope that the Special Committee might be convened again at an early date.

COMMITTEE IV.—Financial Questions.

THE LEAGUE BUDGET.

58. In the Budget presented to this year's Assembly the total estimates for 1928 were placed at 26,871,244 francs, representing an increase over those approved for 1928 of 1,537,427 francs. Of this total increase the Secretariat and special organisation accounted for 924,166 francs, the International Labour Organisation 528,810 francs, and the Permanent Court of International Justice 84,451 francs. This was the largest increase which had occurred for some time and was likely to be substantially increased by supplementary estimates. The situation plainly required most careful consideration, especially in view of the resolution passed on the motion of the Indian Delegation in 1926, when the estimates approved amounted to 24,512,341 francs, to the effect that it was desirable, without putting obstacles in the way of the development of the League, to keep in view a maximum limit of expenditure with the object of securing that the contributions of individual States should not normally, in future, exceed their contributions for that year. The Supervisory Commission in their report on the estimates for this year had spoken of them as presenting "features of such grave importance that the Commission must depart from its ordinary practice and devote the main part of its report to certain broad financial considerations which the draft Budget evokes." The Commission invited the Assembly to consider the question of the functions attempted by the different organisations of the League, and indicated that substantial reductions could only be effected if the Assembly saw fit to suspend or postpone certain of the tasks which it had formerly approved. We had general instructions to press strongly for the adoption of some method of limiting the growth of expenditure.

59. The Supervisory Commission is a creation of the Indian Delegation, and the policy of the Indian Delegation, as also of the British Delegation, has been to give it all possible support. It is capable of being the most authoritative and effective organ for controlling the Budget in the League's possession, but its authority is not very precisely defined. It was considerably criticised last year when, in order to make room for a new credit demanded for the codification of International Law, it proposed to suppress a credit already included in the Budget for an aspect of that subject which had already been taken in hand, and it was further criticised for proposing to suppress a credit for services which had been recommended by the General Conference on Transit and Communications. The view had been held in certain quarters that the Commission should confine itself to checking and pruning the estimates submitted for measures otherwise approved, and that it was going beyond its powers in making suggestions on matters of policy such as whether specific measures should be undertaken or continued. We had hoped that, in view of the serious financial situation, the Fourth Committee would accept the wider, rather than the narrower, view of the Supervisory Commission's functions. We therefore supported a proposal of the British delegate to the effect that the Budget should be referred back to the Supervisory Commission in order that that Commission might work out the effect of making reductions up to a total of 1,000,000 francs and submit the result to the Fourth Committee so that the latter would be in a position to decide what economies could in fact be recommended to the Assembly.

60. His Highness the Nawab of Palanpur made a speech, of which the following is a summary. He wished, in the first place, to explain why the Indian Delegation was one of the most persistent advocates of economy. India ranked sixth on the list of contributing States and thus contributed more than any country that did not occupy a permanent seat on the Council. On the other hand, she was one of the countries least directly concerned in most of the League's activities. Although this fact was largely due to geographical reasons, it was difficult to justify the contribution of India when it had to be recognised that India was directly affected only by certain secondary aspects of the League's work. The money which India paid to the League was money which could be employed for necessary, and even urgent, national services. India's interest in the League was increasing, and it would be most regrettable if this growth of interest in the League were counteracted by growing irritation at the amount of the contribution, which had been the object of marked and persistent criticism in India. He believed that the Supervisory Commission, both on account of its small size and of its experience, was better qualified than a large body like the Fourth Committee to undertake reductions with a prospect of success, and he naturally wished to ensure that full use should be made of the Supervisory Commission's services, as India had been responsible for its creation. He did not wish to rule out an increase of modest dimension on good cause being shown, but he expressed concern at the prospect of continuous increases of the amount proposed this year. He did not wish to insist too strongly on the application of the Indian resolution of 1926, but he felt that there was a wide difference between the spirit of that resolution and the demands now before them. While desiring to leave the Supervisory Commission discretion as to details, he wished to express doubt whether Governments would be able to give the necessary degree of collaboration in the large programme projected for the Economic Organisation, and he thought it would be advantageous if that programme were to be reduced. He also hoped that the Supervisory Commission would not confine their scrutiny to the Budget of the Secretariat, but would also examine the Budget of the International Labour Organisation.

61. The proposal of the British delegate to refer the Budget back to the Supervisory Commission was found to be unacceptable, as the general view of delegates was that the economies which had not already been effected by the Supervisory Commission concerned points which the Assembly itself must decide. The Fourth Committee eventually adopted a resolution which drew the special attention of the other Assembly Committees to the position, asked them to bear in mind the necessity for a reasonable limitation of expenditure, and requested them to revise the programme of conferences projected for 1929, referring in particular to the Budgets of the Economic Organisation, the Transit Organisation, the opium and humanitarian activities and for the work of codifying International Law. This resolution, which, it will be noted, had no application to the Budget of the International Labour Organisation, did not represent any advance on the existing position, and it would, in our view, be difficult to maintain that it had any appreciable influence in the direction of economy. The general discussion which led up to it was interesting and important and is summarised in the report presented by the Fourth Committee to the Assembly. In view of its special importance this discussion was, as a special case, fully reported in the Proceedings of the Committee, although ordinarily such Proceedings merely record a note of the results emerging from the discussion.

62. We now pass to the detailed examination of the Budget, and as no question arises in the case of the Permanent Court of International Justice, whose Budget showed only normal and inevitable increases, we shall confine ourselves to:—

(1) The Secretariat and Special Organisations of the League; and

(2) International Labour Organisation.

(1) Secretariat and Special Organisations.

63. The discussions were long and at times unusually heated. Mr. Yusuf Ali, on our behalf, took an active part in them, and the result undoubtedly had a certain, though in our view inadequate, effect on the credits proposed. We cannot do more in this Report than refer to certain outstanding points.

(a) Wages and allowances of Secretariat.—There had been a growing feeling, which had lately come to a head in certain well-informed articles in newspapers, that there was what has been described as a malaise in the Secretariat. The principles which were to regulate the appointment and employment of the staff were defined in a report submitted by Lord Balfour to the Council and adopted in 1920, which emphasised the necessity for international considerations in the distribution of posts and the purely international character of the League's staff. There was a feeling this year that the international spirit had lost some of its vigour. One Government in particular was understood to claim an undue authority over its nationals employed in the Secretariat. There appeared to be an increasing tendency for Secretariat posts to be filled by diplomats and others seconded from national services and likely in due course to return to them. The higher posts in the League services are held by nationals of Great Powers, and there was a feeling that certain Great Powers at any rate regarded those posts as permanent perquisites. These views were freely and fully ventilated in the Fourth Committee and a resolution was adopted recalling and endorsing the principles of the Balfour Report of 1920. All speakers were at pains, which were obviously genuine, to make it clear that their criticisms were not directed against the Secretary-General himself, who enjoys the highest possible degree of confidence, but were intended rather to support the Secretary-General against certain influences to which he was believed to be exposed. The Secretary-General stated emphatically that the British Government had never endeavoured in any way to influence him in the exercise of his duties and that he would immediately resign if they did so.

(b) Economic and Financial Organisation.—The total estimates for this Organisation, 1,734,000 frances, represented an increase of 358,000 francs over the previous year. Although this increase was large, it was not our intention, for several reasons, to make a heavy attack on this part of the Budget. This Organisation is perhaps the most practical and efficient part of the League machinery. It has shown marked sympathy lately towards India, and it has been, perhaps, the slowest of the League Organisations to develop, so that a curtailment of its growth at the present stage would be less reasonable in this case than in the case of other Organisations. We had, however, intended to argue that the large number of Conferences projected for 1929 might prove to be in excess of the capacity of Governments to collaborate adequately and to suggest that some curtailment of the programme of Conferences might be desirable. His Highness the Nawab of Palanpur had indicated this in his speech in the opening debate, while at the same time saying that India appreciated the value of the work of this Organisation, expected important results from it and desired to support it in every way. Since the original Budget was prepared the Economic Consultative Committee had recommended that the Organisation should undertake tasks which would involve supplementary estimates. In the course of the debate in the Second Committee the programme of the Economic Organisation was modified so as to include the work recommended by the Economic Consultative Committee and also some work thrown upon it by a decision of this year's Assembly on the subject of alcohol, and at the same time part of the original programme, including some of the Conferences, was omitted. When the estimates reached the Fourth Committee finally, after adjustment in the light of this change of programme and after scrutiny by the Supervisory Commission, in the course of which certain economies were effected, it was for the same amount as the original estimate, namely, 1,734,000 francs. In all the circumstances the avoidance of additional credits was all that could be hoped for and we accepted the situation.

(c) Conference for the Codification of International Law.—The Assembly of 1927 had decided that a Conference for the Codification of International Law should be convened at The Hague in 1929. The estimates accordingly included provision for this Conference amounting to 337,000 francs, of which it was reckoned that 128,500 francs was required for holding the Conference at The Hague rather than at Geneva, owing to the cost of transporting and lodging the Secretariat Staff. The questions before the Fourth Committee were whether it was really necessary and desirable to hold the Conference in 1929, and whether it was desirable that the League should incur the extra expense of holding it at The Hague. There was no substantial practical reason, so far as the League was concerned, for holding it at The Hague, and it was generally believed that the preliminary work would not be finished in time for the Conference to take place before the late autumn of 1929—if then. It would, in our view, have been reasonable to decide forthwith to hold the Conference in the early part of 1930 and at Geneva. This view did not, however, prevail, and a very long and at times somewhat embarrassing discussion followed both in the full Committee and in a Sub-Committee, of which Mr. Yusuf Ali was a member. Eventually it was agreed that the credit should be suppressed, and that the Codification Conference should not be held in 1929 unless the Disarmament Conference failed to take place in that year, in which case 208,500 francs of the credit voted for the Disarmament Conference might be used for the Codification Conference. The Dutch Government undertook responsibility for the additional 128,500 francs which the Conference would cost if held at The Hague. This decision was due to the fact that it was scarcely practicable for the Disarmament Conference and the Codification Conference to be held simultaneously next autumn, and it is expressly stated in the report of the Fourth Committee that the reasons for the decision were purely administrative. This was the only saving of any magnitude achieved in the course of the Budget debates, and its history will sufficiently illustrate the extent to which the Fourth Committee was animated by the motive of economy which only served to obtain a concession from the Dutch Government.

(2) International Labour Organisation.

64. The Director of the International Labour Office normally expects the Fourth Committee to accept the Budget of the International Labour Organisation without reduction, as passed by the Governing Body of the Organisation. The Budget was eventually passed unaltered, but after a very long and at times heated debate, in which the unusual course of taking a division was adopted on several points.

65. The nature of the relations between the International Labour Organisation and the League are lacking in precision. The Organisation was created by Part XIII of the Treaty of Versailles. The whole machinery which constitutes the Organisation is described in the Treaty as "associated with that of the League of Nations." The Office itself is described as "part of the organisation of the League." The principal links between the Organisation and the League are that membership of the League carries with it membership of the Organisation, and that the expenses of the International Labour Office and of meetings of the Conference and the Governing Body have to be paid to the Director by the Secretary-General out of the general funds of the League. The Organisation has an autonomous character, and Article 6 of the Financial Regulations of the League provides that all Organisations of the League, autonomous and non-autonomous, shall comply with these regulations and with every decision in the Assembly governing financial and budgetary administration.

66. The constitutional position thus created was the subject of much discussion in the Fourth Committee. It was argued on one side that the determination of the programme of the work of the Organisation rested solely with the Organisation itself, and that the Assembly could not in practice do more than insist upon general conformity between the International Labour Office and the Secretariat of the League in matters affecting the staff, etc. The other side, with which we ourselves were identified, maintained that the Assembly could not leave a large part of the reality of financial control to the Governing Body of the Organisation, a Body which consists as to half only of the Government delegates, those delegates representing only 12 Governments and not being in a position to appreciate and take account of the financial position of the League as a whole. Finally the Fourth Committee in its report expressed the opinion that only the Assembly had the right to approve or amend the Budget of the International Labour Organisation; that it was necessary, however, for the Assembly, in the exercise of this indisputable and undisputed right, to take account of the system in force in the International Labour Organisation, which provides that the Budget submitted to the Assembly is that approved by the Governing Body. We feel that the matter requires to be carried further.

67. In the debate on the detailed estimates discussion took place principally on two subjects:—

(a) The General and Maritime Conference in 1929.—It was argued by Mr. Yusuf Ali on our behalf, together with other delegates, that, if it was necessary to hold two Conferences in 1929, which was open to doubt, they might be held consecutively with the object of saving 27,000 francs in the Budget of the Organisation and a considerable sum in national budgets for the expenses of the delegates of the more distant countries. In spite, however, of all objections, the Director declared himself unable to make any concession and the estimate was passed by the Committee after a vote. The Committee, however, passed a resolution expressing the hope that if, in future, it was decided to hold two Labour Conferences in the same year the dates would be chosen so that the Conferences would take place consecutively for reasons of economy.

(b) The creation of new posts.—The Budget contained provision for the creation of 17 new posts at a cost of 219,900 francs. At the time when the Budget of the International Labour Organisation was before the Governing Body the representative of India, Sir Atul Chatterjee, moved a resolution to the effect that, in view of the extraordinary expenditure to be incurred in 1929 on account of the Special Maritime Conference, the creation of new posts should be postponed, as far as possible, and that there should be a reduction of 150,000 francs under the heading of the creation of new posts. This resolution had been defeated in the Governing Body by 15 votes to 7, but it had the effect of leaving our representative on the Fourth Committee entirely free from any commitment. A special objection to these new posts was that it was generally known that at least one of them, and that the chief one, was intended rather to satisfy the claims of one of the Great Powers, which considered itself insufficiently represented in the International Labour Office, than to meet the actual requirements of the work in hand. When the credit came before the Fourth Committee Mr. Yusuf Ali made a declaration to the effect that the Indian Delegation, having carefully considered the tenour and nature of the preceding discussion on the two Conferences, was of opinion that a similar discussion on the much more important question of the new posts would serve no useful purpose, and that he simply wished to make a statement as follows. He recalled the resolution mentioned above which had been submitted by Sir Atul Chatterjee to the Governing Body, and he stated that this resolution had been moved with the deliberate intention that the Indian Delegation at the Assembly might be entirely free in the matter. This fact relieved the Indian Delegation of any charge of inconsistency if it now voted against these credits and demonstrated that it was the view of India, on the Governing Body as well as in the Assembly, that the authority of the Assembly was not only theoretical but real. He stated that the Indian Delegation was not satisfied, and did not think that it was possible to maintain, that the creation of all the new posts was necessitated purely by the exigencies of the work in hand, which, in their view, was the sole reason to justify the provision of funds, and that he opposed the credit and would vote against if it was put to the vote. He further reserved the liberty of the Delegation to raise the question later in the Assembly and to adopt any attitude that might be considered necessary.

68. The Director was unwilling to offer any compromise, and at the end of the debate certain proposals were put to the vote. A proposal to suppress the whole credit for 219,900 francs for new posts was defeated by 24 votes to 4. Mr. Yusuf Ali's proposal to reduce the credit by 150,000 francs was defeated by 21 votes to 3. A proposal to suppress the credit for the creation of a new post of Chief of Division was defeated by 16 votes to 10. The creation of this post was again put to the vote in the Assembly, as will be mentioned later. In each division we voted in the minority. It is of some significance that about 20 delegates abstained from voting.

69. Throughout these discussions the Director of the International Labour Office, who spoke at great length and very eloquently on various occasions and who made his appeal as much to sentiment and emotion as to reason, represented himself as the spokesman of the Governing Body and as not being in a position to enter into any compromise on their behalf. In the case of the other estimates with which it has to deal, the Fourth Committee has the opportunity of entering into negotiations with the authorities responsible for the demands for funds, namely, the other Committees of the Assembly. But in the case of the estimates of the International Labour Organisation it has no opportunity of doing so, as the Governing Body, which is responsible for the demands, is not in session. The Fourth Committee is, therefore, in the difficult position, if it wishes to make any reduction in the estimates of the Labour Organisation, of having to do so on its own exclusive authority and against the protests of the Director, and in a manner which may, in the absence of any opportunity for negotiation, be somewhat arbitrary. This consideration would seem, in our opinion, to point to the conclusion that if the Director of the International Labour Office cannot be authorised to enter into any arrangements with the Fourth Committee, the Governing Body, or at least its Finance Committee, should be in session at Geneva at the same time as the Assembly. Another reason for this would be that under the present system the Fourth Committee may have to, and on occasions has had to, consider supplementary estimates submitted by the Director which have not been considered by the Governing Body.

70. The result of the proceedings on the Budget was that the Fourth Committee approved an addition of 562,736 francs to the original estimates and a deduction of 405,700 francs from them. The net addition is thus 157,036 francs, making a total Budget approved for 1929, 27,026,280 francs, an increase of 1,692,463 francs as compared with the estimates approved for the current year. India's net contribution will be increased by about £5,180.

AMENDMENTS TO THE FINANCIAL REGULATIONS.

(a) Procedure.

71. As a result of experience in 1927, the Supervisory Commission had been asked to investigate the procedure in connection with supplementary estimates and in dealing with divergences which might arise between the Fourth Committee and other Committees of the Assembly in regard to budgetary credits. They had produced proposals designed in the first place to obviate the undue haste with which the Fourth Committee had on occasions been required to decide upon supplementary estimates, and to settle the difficulties which arose when the views of the Fourth Committee differed from those of another Committee as a result of inconsistent views being expressed by members of the same delegation acting in the Fourth Committee and in one of the other Committees. The amendments to the Financial Regulations were approved by the Fourth Committee, with minor drafting corrections. These will provide satisfactorily for the difficulties which have been experienced in the past and will improve the regularity and deliberation of the proceedings of the Committee. Whether they will directly strengthen the capacity of the Fourth Committee for securing economy is open to doubt.

(b) Appointment of Supervisory Commission.

72. The Supervisory Commission consists of five members, of whom at least one has to be a financial expert, and it has to include persons who belong to countries not represented on the Council. The Financial Regulations further provide that the term of office of each member is three years. Hitherto appointments have been made by the Council. A proposal was submitted by the Norwegian delegate that the members should, in future, be appointed by the Assembly. It is desirable to record the way in which this proposal arose.

73. In March last the Council had approved expenditure on the enlargement of the present Council Hall without reference to the Supervisory Commission and subject only to report to the Assembly, although no provision existed for such expenditure in the Budget for 1928. This action was considered by the Fourth Committee to conflict with the very important principle that the Assembly is the sole authority in matters of expenditure. The Supervisory Commission recorded the unanimous opinion that the position of the Assembly as the only authority competent to take decisions in matters of expenditure must be upheld. This opinion was confirmed by the Fourth Committee and by the Assembly.

74. The incident called attention to the anomalous fact that while the Assembly is supreme in matters of expenditure the Supervisory Commission is appointed by the Council. The Norwegian delegate's proposal that the appointments should, in future, be made by the Assembly was approved by the Fourth Committee after a vote and later by the Assembly. The decision will not take effect before the 1st January next as the Assembly was not able at short notice to deal with the situation which will arise from the expiry at the end of this year of the term of office of Lord Meston. Although the decision is logically sound the Assembly itself is not a good electoral body for appointments for which expert rather than political or representative qualifications are required. It is very important that the members of the Supervisory Commission should be well chosen, and it is therefore desirable that the Assembly should adopt some method such as that of a Selection Committee for having the qualifications of possible candidates thoroughly examined and reported upon before the election takes place. It is possible that appointment by the Assembly will result in the Supervisory Commission being entrusted by the Assembly with wider powers. This would be a gain from the financial point of view.

ALLOCATION OF LEAGUE EXPENSES.

75. The scale of assessment which was agreed to provisionally for three years in 1926 has never been regarded with satisfaction from the Indian point of view, and it was hoped that when the three years' agreement came to an end it might be possible to obtain a reduction. The Committee on Allocation had met during the last year and had recommended for sufficiently convincing economic reasons that the national budgets of 1930 should be taken as the earliest on which a final revision of the scale could be based. The Committee proposed to bring forward a scheme on the basis of the 1930 national budgets for the consideration of the Assembly of 1932, so that the new scale might come into force for payments to be made after January 1933. We had been instructed that we need not resist this proposal, on the understanding that India was not finally committed to the acceptance of the scheme which the Allocation Committee would submit on this basis. Mr. Yusuf Ali made this clear on our behalf and further enquired why it was not possible for proposals based on the national budgets of 1930 to be brought before the Assembly of 1931 so that the approved scheme might be applied to payments due in 1932. Explanations were forthcoming as to the difficulty of earlier application of the new scheme from the technical point of view, and Mr. Yusuf Ali said that he would raise no objection if an earlier date was not possible. The provisional scale accepted in 1926 will accordingly remain in force during the four years 1929-32 inclusive.

THE LEAGUE BUILDING SCHEME.

76. It had been hoped at the time of the Eighth Assembly that final decisions would be taken during the following year and that the Ninth Assembly would only have to give those decisions their formal confirmation. But this expectation has not been realised. A plan for the Assembly Hall and the Secretariat buildings had been agreed upon, but it had also been necessary to take into account the construction of a library as a result of the munificent gift of Mr. J. D. Rockefeller, Junr. It was eventually found that the site which had been secured in 1926 on the edge of the lake for the Assembly Hall and the Secretariat was not large enough to provide suitably for the construction of the library in addition. Efforts were made to acquire a neighbouring private property, but without success. After negotiation with the Swiss authorities and with the authorities of Geneva, the Special Committee on the building scheme secured for the League the right to make use for the League buildings of a public park known as the Ariana Park, situated above the lakeside property, in consideration of which the latter will be handed over to the public of Geneva. The new scheme is understood to give complete satisfaction to all parties as far as the site is concerned. But the plans, and especially the procedure connected with the competition of architects, were severely criticised by the delegate from Norway, who based his arguments on the protests lodged by Architects' Associations in various countries of Europe. The change of site makes a considerable modification in the plans necessary. The discussion lasted into the small hours of the morning, but it was decided not to delay construction. A Committee of five was authorised to obtain all the expert advice necessary from the technical point of view, and to give final approval to revised plans adapted to the new site, subject to ratification by the Council of the League. It may be hoped that this important matter is at last settled and that the work will be well in hand before the next Assembly meets.

CONTRIBUTIONS IN ARREARS.

77. This serious but delicate matter was, in accordance with the usual procedure, considered confidentially by the Fourth Committee, after reference to a Sub-Committee. The prospect of substantial payments being made in the near future seems brighter than for some time past.

COMMITTEE V.—Social and Humanitarian Questions.

CHILD WELFARE.

78. The Child Welfare Committee has been pursuing various lines of enquiry. Its report presented nothing which required criticism or called for a decision. The Child Welfare Committee has, in the past, been subject to criticism for diffusing its energies in unprofitable directions. But it has recently endeavoured to narrow its field of action and to concentrate on a small number of important questions. The Fifth Committee commended this endeavour and expressed the opinion that the Committee should be encouraged to persevere in this direction.

79. Mr. Mallik took the opportunity in the Fifth Committee to express appreciation of the ideals in view and to give some account of the work which is being carried on in India. He said that the Government and the educated public had taken up the question of child welfare earnestly and that great assistance was being received from Europeans in India and particularly from European ladies and from the Christian Missions. Centres for child welfare and maternity work had been created at almost every important station in India. But much remained to be done, and he explained the great difficulties to be contended with arising from the ancient traditions of civilisation in India and its unfortunate economic and climatic conditions. It was not possible or desirable either to make rapid progress or to copy western methods without discrimination. He assured the Committee that in spite of the serious and deliberate misrepresentations which had been made in recent times, the age of marriage was steadily rising in India and child marriage was constantly diminishing. He did not agree with the delegate of Roumania who said that 18 years should be established as the universal age of marriage; there could be no uniform age for reasons of race and climate. He referred to the testimony of many Europeans in India—officials, social workers and missionaries—as to the conditions of mothers and children, which dispelled the ignorant and prejudiced allegations of persons who had spent only a short time in the country. The most hopeful sign of the future was the way in which the rising generation of educated Indian women were taking to child welfare and other social work. He said that much mischief was being done in India by the exhibition of objectionable and unsuitable cinematograph films from the West, and he thought that the League should take up a strong attitude in this matter, which was a source of serious international trouble. He supported the view that the Governing Body of the Cinema Institute at Rome should contain women and also representatives of the East. (We may here note that Dr. R. P. Paranjpye has since been appointed by the Council of the League to this Governing Body.) With regard to the question of women police, he said that female criminals were practically unknown in India and that women were at present little concerned with out-door or public life. The key-note of the life of women in India was not material enjoyment but sacrifice for others.

TRAFFIC IN WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

80. The main points which the Committee on this subject had been considering during the last year arose out of the report of the Special Body of Experts. They concerned (1) the extension of the enquiry of the Special Body; (2) the abolition of the system of licensed houses; (3) measures to be taken against souteneurs. As to the first, the Committee itself had discussed whether the Special Body, if it resumed its operations, which was dependent upon the provision of funds from outside sources, should renew its enquiries in the countries which had already been examined, or whether it should undertake a new field of enquiry, particularly in the East. The Committee itself had come to no decision on this point, but the Assembly expressed the hope that it would be possible to extend the investigations to countries where no investigation had yet taken place. As to the abolition of licensed houses, the Committee had passed a resolution expressing the hope that the Governments of those countries which still retain the system should examine the question in the light of the report of the Special Body and, in order to facilitate this examination, the Secretariat had been asked to make a study of the laws and regulations in force in those countries where the system has been abolished. Delegates from such countries were unanimous in stating that the policy of abolition had been attended by nothing but good results. As to the third matter, there was unanimity that stricter measures against souteneurs should be adopted and general satisfaction that a concise study of the laws and penalties was being prepared by the Secretariat.

81. As in the case of the preceding subject, Mr. Mallik took the opportunity of expressing recognition of the value of the work which was being accomplished. He said that the information contained in the report of the Special Body would be valuable to all countries in spite of differences of practice, methods and social conditions. As India had been the object of serious misrepresentation outside the League, Mr. Mallik explained to the Committee what had been done in India in recent years. There was still one practice known as devadasi, the continuance of which he deeply deplored. But a strong body of public opinion had grown up which protested against this practice. The Madras Legislative Council had recently passed a resolution recommending the Government to promote legislation on the subject, and Mr. Mallik thought that there was every reason to hope that the practice would be suppressed in the near future. He went on to say that India had no objection to the extension of the enquiries of the Special Body to the East, including India, provided that these enquiries related only to the international traffic and not to internal conditions. If the scope of the enquiries were to be enlarged so as to embrace internal aspects of the question, it would be reasonable that the enquiries should be continued in this form in those countries where they had already been carried out in their restricted form. The question of the abolition of licensed houses had been discussed on the one side from the point of view of science and statistics and on the other side from the more humane point of view. Mr. Mallik was in favour of the humane rather than the scientific attitude in social matters. He ended by saying that the abolition of commercialised prostitution was pre-eminently a suitable subject for the League.

TRAFFIC IN OPIUM AND OTHER DANGEROUS DRUGS.

82. The outstanding fact of the year is that the Geneva Opium Convention of 1925 has received the necessary number of ratifications and will shortly come into operation. At the date of the Assembly there were 29 parties to the Convention and four more States were expected to ratify it shortly. The Central Board to be set up under the Convention will probably be in existence before the end of the year. The Geneva Convention of 1925, if strictly applied, should prove a powerful instrument in the suppression of the traffic in drugs.

83. The Advisory Committee regard the position of the illicit traffic as still highly unsatisfactory. The manufacture of harmful drugs continues greatly in excess of legitimate requirements and the new methods of manufacture are rendering supervision increasingly difficult. The situation is, therefore, in the view of the Committee, extremely serious, if not alarming. The Committee had studied the best methods of ensuring administrative control over the drug traffic and had drawn up a standard set of regulations or code for the suppression of the traffic. The Committee had also requested the Council to urge upon Governments that all factories manufacturing dangerous drugs should either be State-owned or placed under effective Government supervision. These recommendations, after submission to the Council, were communicated to Governments by the Secretary-General. The Committee has dealt with certain points in regard to the status of the Secretariat of the Central Board, recommending by a majority that it should be appointed by the Secretary-General on the nomination of the Central Board, subject to the approval of the Council, and that it should form an integral part of the Secretariat of the League. This matter awaits the final decision of the Council. The Committee has also been concerned at the efforts of certain manufacturers to find substitutes for morphine since the latter was made subject to control, and steps are being taken, as far as possible, to bring these substitutes equally under control.

84. Sir Venkata Reddi made an impressive and reasoned statement on India's attitude in regard to the general position. He applauded the great service which the Advisory Committee was rendering and, after paying tribute to the efforts of others, he claimed attention to the service which had been rendered to the world by India. He summarised the history of international efforts for the suppression of the opium traffic from the Conference of Shanghai in 1909 up to the Geneva Conferences of 1924 and 1925. He justified the attitude of India when differences arose at the Geneva Conference leading to the withdrawal of the United States and China. China was the greatest user of opium in the world, and India had at one time been the greatest producer, but now Persia and Turkey seem to be producing as much opium as India, and China much more. He asked what opium-producing country had done as much as India to fulfil the obligations which had been undertaken. The Committee was being asked to congratulate certain countries for making the production of drugs a Government monopoly. But this had been the position in India for many years. He gave the statistics showing the reduction of acreage under poppy cultivation in India in the last 20 years, and the reduction of revenue, which worked out at an average of at least £4 million a year. In 18 years India had sacrificed a revenue of £72 million. India had made this sacrifice, not because she could afford to do so, but in order to show respect for international opinion, and to assist in the task of suppressing vice connected with the use of drugs. India did not consider that her great sacrifices had met with an adequate response from other countries, either producers or consumers of opium. There had rather been an increase of opium smoking and a larger production of narcotic drugs. He mentioned incidentally that the work of the Advisory Committee had in recent years been concerned more with the traffic in drugs than with the questions of opium production and opium smoking. He described the successive steps taken by India for controlling the opium trade, concluding with the Government of India's decision in 1925 to reduce progressively, and ultimately to extinguish, exports to all destinations except for medical and scientific purposes. In 10 years from 1925 those who wished to obtain opium for smoking or for similar purposes would have to get their supplies from countries other than India. Passing on to the Central Board, which is to be set up under the Geneva Convention of 1925, he laid emphasis on the necessity for the independence of this Board being secured and maintained at any cost. The members of this Board would have to be persons of experience in regard to the production of opium and the control of the traffic, and he thought that India, in view of her sacrifices and her great experience, should be regarded as qualified to supply a suitable candidate for the Board. (It is gratifying to be able to add that Sir B. K. Mullick has since been appointed by the Council to the Central Board.)

COMMISSION OF ENQUIRY ON OPIUM SMOKING IN THE FAR EAST.

85. A Conference of the parties to the Geneva Opium Agreement of February 1925 is due to be held next year. The British Government believed that it would greatly facilitate the work of this Conference if a previous study were made of the problem of controlling the practice of opium smoking under the conditions which exist in the Far East at the present time. Control is hampered, if not nullified, by the difficulties which arise from the illicit traffic and which have increased rather than diminished since 1925. These difficulties are specially prominent in Hong Kong and, to a lesser extent, in Malaya. But they are by no means confined to these two countries. It was anticipated that an independent Commission, appointed by the League, would be able to present an unbiased statement of the actual position and valuable suggestions as to the means to be adopted for regulating it.

86. Sir Venkata Reddi was among those who supported the proposal of the British delegate. He said that the Government of India approved the suggestion. The Commission would not find anything of interest in India except in the province of Burma, which was practically the only part of India in which opium smoking existed, and he assumed that the Committee would wish to visit Burma. Before the Conference met in 1929 it seemed essential that reliable information should be available in regard to opium smoking in the East. The Commission was intended to undertake preliminary work for this Conference, and if the proposal, which the Chinese delegate had made, that the Commission should extend its enquiries to the whole subject of narcotic drugs was approved, the Conference would have to be indefinitely postponed. He suggested that it was for the Fifth Committee to say whether, and to what extent, the Commission was desirable and that the question of whether funds could be found for it should be left entirely to the Fourth Committee.

87. The Fifth Committee eventually decided by 13 votes to 1, with 17 abstentions, to recommend the appointment of the Commission. After consideration by the Fourth Committee the sum of 100,000 francs was included in the Budget of the League as a contribution towards the expenses of the Commission. The British Government has offered a contribution towards the expenses and certain other Governments are ready to make contributions and to offer hospitality. It was made clear that the Government of India are not prepared to contribute financially.

REFUGEES.

88. Since the early days of the League the High Commissioner for Refugees (Dr. Nansen) has, with the League's support and approval, been occupied with the problem of resettling and providing legal status for the large populations (mainly Russians and Armenians) which were left without homes as a result of the war and the events immediately following the war. The total number of Russian and Armenian refugees was originally estimated at 1,300,000, and there now remain some 200,000 unemployed though capable of work. The service is regarded as one of a temporary character, and it is hoped that the time may eventually come when the League will have completed its mission. It was recognised by the Assembly that in present circumstances international action was still necessary for some time to come. The Assembly noted that a complete solution could only be provided by the return of the refugees to their country of origin or their assimilation by the countries at present giving them shelter, and it urged the Governments concerned to provide the refugees with all possible facilities for acquiring the nationality of the countries in which they at present reside. For some time past the administrative work of finding employment for refugees has been mainly carried out by the International Labour Office, which no longer finds itself qualified to deal with this problem. In future the High Commissioner, assisted by a mixed Commission consisting of representatives of the League and representatives of the Governing Body of the International Labour Office, will be entrusted with the whole responsibility under the League.

COMMITTEE VI.—Political Questions.

SLAVERY CONVENTION.

89. In the last 12 months the number of ratifications or final accessions to the Slavery Convention of 1926 has increased from 14 to 26, but there are still several States whose adhesion is most important to ensure the universal application of the Convention. The Sixth Committee noted the receipt of information concerning the abolition of slavery from certain countries, of which India is one. The delegate for Abyssinia maintained that the fact that Abyssinia had not yet ratified the Convention was not preventing her from applying all its provisions. It is considered, however, that the ratification of the Convention by Abyssinia remains greatly to be desired.

MANDATES.

90. The Sixth Committee had only to express approval of the manner in which the mandatory principle is being carried into effect by the Powers who hold mandates under the League and by the Mandates Commission. An admirable spirit of co-operation exists between the Commission and the mandatory Powers. The only controversial element in the discussion on this subject was introduced by the Persian delegate, who made certain allegations of a political character in regard to the relations between Persia and Iraq. His statement concluded with a complaint as to the introduction of plague and cholera into Persia from Iraq, India being the source of these diseases. Sir Venkata Reddi protested against this irrelevant and unexpected charge. He said that the Government of India took the utmost care in the matter of quarantine, and suggested that if the Persian Government had any representations to make on this subject they should convey them to the Government of India through the usual channels. When the discussion was resumed the British delegate made a categorical statement in reply to the political allegations of the Persian delegate, and Sir Venkata Reddi added some remarks on the allegation that India was the source of plague and cholera.

ESTABLISHMENT OF ARMENIAN REFUGEES IN ERIVAN.

91. The High Commissioner for Refugees, Dr. Nansen of Norway, has for some years been endeavouring to find a financial basis for certain schemes which have been prepared with this object. Dr. Nansen has now received offers from certain Governments and from Armenian organisations which would permit of the execution of part of these schemes. The question was whether the Assembly would agree to provide funds for the administrative expenses. The proposal met with some opposition, and Sir Venkata Reddi spoke with the object of raising doubts as to the advisability of taking up a task which there seemed little prospect of carrying out completely and in a manner which would increase the prestige of the League. It was, however, eventually decided that the work should be carried on, so far as funds permitted, under the auspices of the League, and that the League should provide 65,000 francs to meet the administrative expenses.

ORGANISATION FOR INTELLECTUAL CO-OPERATION.

92. This subject has hitherto been dealt with by the Second Committee, but it was transferred to the Sixth Committee this year as a temporary arrangement with the object of making the work of the Committees more equal. The work of this Organisation received an unusual amount of attention this year, and it would appear that its value is being increasingly recognised. The funds of the Institute in Paris have been augmented by an increase of the contribution from the French Government and by additional contributions from other Governments.

93. Intellectual co-operation is described in the Report of the Committee for Intellectual Co-operation presented this year to the Assembly as having two aspects: first, that of promoting and co-ordinating intellectual life in all its departments by means of the improvement or creation of instruments of work, which is the more practical aspect; and secondly, that of bringing intellectual workers to realise that their interests and duties are everywhere identical, and to create among them a spirit of universality and intellectual harmony on which all other forms of reconstruction need to be based. There is, however, a feeling that the Institute at Paris is in danger of diffusing its energies, and it is therefore satisfactory that the Committee has decided to take stock of its work and to review at its next session all schemes submitted to it and all work in hand, so that the Organisation may concentrate its efforts on essential tasks and may reduce the administrative or bureaucratic element to a minimum.

94. Sir Venkata Reddi took part in the discussion and said that while the first object of the activities of this Organisation had been to strengthen the links in the intellectual life of the different countries of Europe, he thought that it would be useful if these activities were extended to the East. There were scholars in the East whose researches might be associated with those of Western scholars with valuable results. The world, and the League in particular, had been engaged since the Great War in trying to outlaw war. There had been a Great War in India also, known as the Mahabarata War, which had in a sense been more disastrous than the Great War of 1914—18, because in addition to the human and material loss which it had caused, it had destroyed arts and sciences and a whole civilisation. The Mahabarata War had been followed by the establishment of the doctrine that non-violence is the supreme law, which might be likened to the Paris Pact of this year. This doctrine had not succeeded in preventing further wars, and research into the causes of its failure by intellectual co-operation between East and West might possibly contribute to a more happy development of the present situation. He believed that the solution of the problem of preventing future wars rested with the intellectual rather than with the political world. He then went on to speak of some of the particular subjects referred to in the report, and he noted that the Organisation for Intellectual Co-operation was concerned, not only with the opinions of Governments, but with those of the non-official public. He anticipated that on the subject of the protection of scientific property the opinion of India might lay more stress on the importance of preserving the public interest than on that of securing the rights of private individuals, which seemed to be the principle underlying the draft Convention which had been prepared and which was now under the consideration of Governments. It had not yet been possible for special reasons to form a National Committee in India. The Central Government in India is no longer exclusively, or even mainly, concerned in the subject of education, and it would be necessary to secure agreement between the provincial authorities before any central body could be formed for intellectual co-operation. In regard to the exchange of teachers between different countries and the sending of students from one country to another, obvious difficulties arose in the case of India of a geographical and financial nature. But a considerable amount of work was being done in India to promote the education both of children and of adults in the ideals and work of the League and in the value of international co-operation, and he hoped that still more would be done in the near future as the results of consultations which are taking place between the Central and the local authorities.

Lord Lytton's Speech in the Assembly on the Budget.

95. As already stated in paragraph 67 above, we had expressly reserved our liberty of action when the Budget came before the Assembly. We had, in the meantime, asked for and obtained from the Secretary of State instructions as to the attitude which we should adopt, and it was in accordance with these instructions that Lord Lytton made the speech of which the following is a summary.

96. He said that the inadequacy of the concessions to the views of the Indian Delegation at an earlier stage compelled him to take this last opportunity of expressing emphatically the great anxiety of the Indian Delegation at the upward tendency of the Budget. He wished to direct attention to—

First, the unsatisfactory character of the existing procedure for determining the League's expenditure;

Secondly, the responsibility of the Assembly for the Budget of the International Labour Organisation equally with those of the Secretariat and the Permanent Court; and Finally, the special circumstances of India's membership of the League.

97. In regard to the first point, he recalled that the Assembly of 1926 appeared to be in general agreement that the contributions of States had reached their limit. Last year the increase in the Budget was only moderate, but this year the Assembly was asked to approve an increase of no less than 1,700,000 francs, or nearly 7 per cent. of the total approved last year. India could not agree to a normal increase at this rate. There were no circumstances to justify an exceptionable increase of expenditure this year, and if this increase was to be regarded as normal the total expenditure of 1926 would be doubled in 10 or 12 years' time. This increase was not merely due to increasing appreciation of the League and to increasing use of it, but to defective procedure for controlling and limiting expenditure. The budgetary control of the League was very weak compared with that of an efficient national government. National governments had independent finance departments whose influence was continually exercised in the direction of economy and whose ability to find money governed all decisions to spend it. There was also the more remote control of the taxpayer. The League, on the other hand, had no executive government with whom rested the intiative of expenditure. All the departments of the League were more interested in spending than in saving. The Supervisory Committee did not discharge all the functions of a Finance Ministry and the control of the Fourth Committee was not that of a body responsible for finding the money for such expenditure as it approved. Lord Lytton recognised that these defects might be inherent in the constitution of the League. He referred to them with the object of emphasising that, in the absence of the safeguards which exist in the government of a State, the League was dependent for economy soley on the exercise by its members of self-restraint and the spirit of reasonableness. This year's proceedings showed little indication of either goodwill or self-restraint. Those whose duty it was to bring forward and defend claims for expenditure had not acted with moderation and those who had to scrutinise the merits of those claims had acted with too little determination. The necessary balance between considerations of policy and finance could only be achieved if the members of the Fourth Committee not only possessed special qualities of judgment and experience, but were also given a reasonable discretion in the use of them. As it was, those who spoke favourably of economy in general had been among the first to criticise proposals for reduction. New services had been approved which might be desirable, but were neither urgent nor essential. New posts had been created, the necessity of which for the actual purposes of the work in hand had not been established.

98. In regard to the control of the Assembly over the Budget of the International Labour Organisation, Lord Lytton said that that Organisation could not be regarded as independent since it was financed by the League. It was in the case of this Organisation that there had, this year, been so conspicuous an absence of any disposition to meet demands for economy in a reasonable spirit. He maintained that it was wholly inadmissible to claim that the International Labour Organisation was autonomous to a degree which would deprive the Assembly of any practical financial control and would require the Assembly merely to vote money for programmes which had already been finally settled.

99. Coming to the last point, Lord Lytton said that India was probably the country whose Government found the most difficulty in justifying the contribution due from her. The proportion of the League's work which could be represented as being of benefit or interest to India was far from corresponding with India's share in its expenditure, which was higher than that of any State not permanently represented on the Council. The fact that the amount of her contribution could be employed for important national services, for which funds were needed, was not the whole difficulty. There was a view in India, as in other Eastern countries, not only that the League did not carry out much work of value to Eastern countries, but that its tendency was to strengthen European interests at the expense of those of other continents and races. If the League might now be regarded as firmly and finally established in Europe that was by no means the case in Asia. It was important that the work of those who were supporting the interests of the League and its ideals in the East should be made as easy as possible. The more the East could be brought into direct contact with the work of the League, and the more the League demonstrated that it worked as much and as impartially for Asia as for Europe, the less would be heard of financial grievances. The best solution lay along the line of increasing collaboration between East and West. But pending such a development the claim for a limitation of the financial burden involved in membership of the League was, in the case of India, an urgent one which needed to be received with greater sympathy and attention. Every increase of the financial burden, without a corresponding extension of the sphere of work, increased the difficulty of maintaining that membership of the League was worth the price.

100. Lord Lytton ended by reminding the Assembly that, weak as the normal procedure of the League might be, there existed, in the last resort, one method by which a dissentient member might insist upon its views being respected, namely, by refusal to vote the Budget, which, like everything else, requires unanimity. He appealed to all those concerned not to force the Indian Delegation to resort to this method. While the Indian Delegation refrained from this extreme step this year there might be no alternative, if this protest were disregarded in framing future Budgets, but to make the assent of the Indian Delegation to the Budget conditional upon obtaining some limitation of expenditure.

101. Lord Lytton was followed by the Norwegian delegate, Mr. Hambro, who had taken a leading part in the proceedings in the Fourth Committee. Mr. Hambro strongly supported the criticisms which had been made by Lord Lytton. The only speaker who attempted to reply to Lord Lytton was the Portuguese delegate, who had acted as Chairman of the Fourth Committee, and his remarks did not appear to be very effective.

102. Mr. Hambro had stated in the course of his speech that he wished to move a reduction of the Budget of the International Labour Organisation by 38,500 francs, this being the amount provided for the creation of a new post of Chief of Division intended to satisfy the demands of a State which did not consider itself adequately represented in the Office. Mr. Hambro's motion to this effect, on being put to the vote, was defeated by 18 votes to 6 with 11 abstentions. Mr. Hambro and Lord Lytton stated that they did not intend to press their view and the whole Budget was accordingly passed with unanimity.

103. Although Lord Lytton's speech had necessarily to be made at the very end of the Assembly Session, when some of the delegates had already left Geneva, it has undoubtedly served to draw attention, not only to the financial administration of the League, but to the importance of broadening the basis of the League's activities. It was inevitable that, in the years immediately following the war, international activity should concentrate upon the urgent problems of European reconstruction. But the phase which demanded that concentration is passing, and it was timely to remind the nations that the preoccupation of the League with European affairs must pass with it. Actual insistence upon reasonable economy is, in itself, an important function. The part which Indian Delegations have consistently played at Geneva in demanding the observance of sound financial principles has, we believe, been of value to the League in promoting its efficiency and in maintaining its prestige. But it is of at least equal importance to secure that the League observes in practice that universality which it claims in principle. We believe that financial pressure may be usefully and legitimately employed to this end, provided it is used with discretion and with a full sense of responsibility. Fairminded persons are beginning to recognise that the non-European countries, and India in particular, cannot reasonably be expected to acquiesce in a constantly increasing Budget, which is distributed among the States Members on the assumed basis of an interest proportionate to economic capacity, so long as the main incidence of the League's activities remains unchanged. We hope that the action which we took this year may, in the near future, have its due effect upon the total cost of the League's activities, upon the relative share of India in that cost, and upon the relative value to India of the results of the League's expenditure.

104. We conclude by observing that if India is to demand that her practical interest in the work of the League should approximate more closely to her share of the expenditure, it is all the more necessary that the advantages which India already enjoys in consequence of her membership of the League should be appreciated at their true value. Nothing that we have said should be taken as supporting the view that the advantages which India already derives from the League are negligible. These advantages have always, on the contrary, been considerable and they are becoming more so. They include in particular a degree of international status which India would not now enjoy, nor be able to obtain, if her separate signature to the Treaty of Versailles had not made her an original member of the League.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Cotton Crops of Bengal, 1928-29.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1926-27, the area under the cotton crops in Bengal has represented some 0·2 per cent. of the total area under cotton in India.)

There are two crops—early and late. The "early" crop is chiefly grown in the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in the Tripura State, and to a small extent also in other districts. The "late" crop is grown in Bankura and Midnapore.

Character of the Season.—Since the publication of the third forecast in December last, the outturn of the early crop is reported to have been reduced in the important district of the Chittagong Hill Tracts and in the Tripura State owing to excessive rain before plucking time in October.

A fairly satisfactory outturn is expected for the late crop.

Area sown.—The total area sown with early cotton is returned at 77,396 acres (revised), and that with late at 1,403 acres (revised), against 76,863 acres and 903 acres, respectively, in the corresponding forecast of last year.

Outturn.—The outturn of the early crop is estimated at 17,446 bales (revised) and the late crop at 379 bales (revised), against 19,784 bales and 125 bales, respectively, in the corresponding forecast of last year.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL PROGRESS REPORT ON THE FOREST ADMINISTRATION IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31ST MARCH 1928.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

Revenue Department.

Forests.

CALCUTTA, THE 6TH FEBRUARY 1929.

RESOLUTION—No. 1732 For.

READ—

The Annual Progress Report on the Forest Administration in the Presidency of Bengal for the year ending 31st March 1928.

READ ALSO—

The reports of the previous three years and the Government Resolutions thereon.

Mr. E. O. Shebbeare was Conservator of Forests, Bengal, till the 15th November 1927. From the 16th November 1927, i.e., from the date of the division of the Bengal Forest Department into two circles, to the end of the year, he was in charge of the Northern Circle and Mr. J. Homfray of the Southern Circle.

The foreword to the report indicates the main problems which are before the department. The revenue from forests continues to increase. The difference between revenue and expenditure which in 1883-84 was only Rs. 3·60 lakhs rose in 1926-27 to Rs. 14·10 lakhs and in the year under report amounted to Rs. 16·47 lakhs. Considering that the total expenditure includes both capital and revenue expenditure, the financial results are very satisfactory. Increase in expenditure has always resulted in substantial increase in revenue; and with this fact in view the officers of the Department from time to time suggest schemes involving fresh expenditure. Several paragraphs of the report referring to such schemes betray a certain impatience on the part of the officers of the Forest Department, of the delays which occur in providing funds for necessary and profitable schemes. Government recognize the zeal of the officers of the Department but have had occasion to remark that a certain amount of avoidable delay and unnecessary misunderstanding has arisen owing to the unfamiliarity of the Department with the Financial Rules of Government. It is necessary for the Forest Department to adhere scrupulously to the financial rules framed under rule 37 (g) of the Devolution Rules. Provided they do so, the Department may rest assured that Government will consider their schemes for the necessary conservancy and profitable development of the State forests with the greatest sympathy.

2. The reorganisation of the administration of the Sundarbans Forest Division is the most pressing improvement under the consideration of Government.

The proposal about the formation of a Silvicultural Division is also under consideration.

The scheme for the re-adjustment of boundaries between reserved forests and Government estate forests in Cox's Bazar and Chittagong Divisions involving release of some forest land for cultivation and transfer of certain areas of khas forests to the Forest Department is an important improvement. The scheme was started by the Department before its financial aspect as a whole had been considered and before it had gone into the budget through the schedules of new expenditure. Steps are now being taken to regularize the position.

3. Area.—The area of reserved forest increased by 4 square miles to 5,303 square miles. The area of protected forest diminished by 1,630 acres in the Dacca-Mymensingh Division due to its reservation. There was no change in the area of unclassed forests. Including the unclassed and other forests, the total area under the control of the Forest Department thus practically remained unchanged.

4. The average cost of demarcation of boundaries of khas forests in Chittagong Division decreased from Rs. 20 to Rs. 15 per mile.

Orders approving the final boundary between the Cinchona and Forest Departments in the district of Darjeeling were issued after the close of the year.

5. Working plans.—The revised working plans for the Jalpaiguri and Buxa Divisions were under compilation and the revision of the Kurseong working plan was in progress. The period for revision of the Sundarbans working plan has been extended.

The full programme of regeneration could not be carried out but 2,435 acres were taken up during the year, against 1,994 and 1,511 acres in the two previous years. Some striking figures are given which demonstrate the value to the State of the new plantations which are being laid down under the present system of artificial regeneration. Five square miles of sâl (shorea robusta) against 15 prescribed in the working plans have been raised artificially. The crop on this comparatively small area will be worth about Rs. 224 lakhs on maturity. The total outlay on this area, including the cost of formation and upkeep of the area, with compound interest, will be recovered from the sale of thinnings long before the crop matures.

6. Natural calamities.—A cyclone passed through the Ramgarh Sitakund and South Sitakund Ranges in the Chittagong Division in April 1927 and caused considerable damage to the forest buildings. The Tista, Mechi and Hasimara rivers caused some damage this year also. The Basra is showing a tendency to alter its course. The river Sankos has returned to its old bed. The silting up of rivers in the Chittagong Hill Tracts is taking a serious turn.

In the Kalimpong Division the planting up of landslips was taken up.

7. Utilisation.—The band mill which was started at Siliguri in April 1926, was employed on the conversion of sal and did good work. The largest demand for sawn timber was from the Eastern Bengal and other Railways.

8. Khedda.—Departmental khedda operations in the Buxa Division resulted in a net profit of Rs. 5,048 against Rs. 2,319 in the previous year. Departmental khedda operations in the Chittagong Hill Tracts resulted in the capture of 32 elephants, of which 4 died, 1 escaped, 1 was shot and 5 were released. The profits of these operations amounted to Rs. 14,400.

9. Outturn, revenue and expenditure.—The steady increase in outturn and revenue was maintained. The revenue increased from Rs. 31,23,842 in 1926-27 to Rs. 33,49,479 in 1927-28. The total expenditure was Rs. 17,02,455 in 1927-28 against Rs. 17,34,759 in 1926-27. The expenditure included little over Rs. 9 lakhs on conservancy, maintenance and regeneration and the balance of about Rs. 8 lakhs on establishment.

The amount spent on construction and repairs of roads and bridges, was less than that in the previous year. The important new works carried on during the year were the conversion of a portion of the Sukia-Manibhanjang and Rambi-Lalkuti bridle paths in the Darjeeling Division into cart roads. Seven bridges commenced in 1926-27 in the Buxa Division were completed during the year and one new bridge was constructed.

The amount spent on construction of buildings was slightly less than that in the previous year. The most important building constructed was the Divisional Forest office at Darjeeling. The amount spent on upkeep of existing buildings was, however, a little more than that of the previous year.

10. General.—The total value of sales of forest produce during the year was about Rs. 50,000 more than that in the previous year. The value of forest produce given away free of royalty was Rs. 49,193 against Rs. 47,600 in 1926-27. The free grants included timber granted for repairs to and construction of public institutions in the Sundarbans Forest Division, for the relief of the people affected by the cyclone in the Chittagong Division and for use by the Buddhist students of the Rangamati High School. A small experiment directed to the problem of afforestation in the district of Bankura was carried on last year.

Rupees 2,440 were paid as rewards for killing tigers. Only one person was killed by a tiger during the year against an average of 13 during the previous five years.

The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to Messrs. Shebbeare and Homfray for their successful administration of the Forest Circles. His Excellency in Council also notices with pleasure the record of good work done by other officers of the Department referred to in the report.

ORDER.—Ordered that the above resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

ORDERED also that a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to the Conservators of Forests, for information.

By order of the Governor in Council,

H. C. V. PHILPOT,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal (offg.)
